CHINOOK — Slain U.S. Ambassador to Libya Chris Stevens and his family are members of the Chinook Indian Tribe, which has put out a call asking for prayers on their behalf. Chinook Chairman Ray Gardner said Wednesday, "To all of the Chinook members and all the friends of the Chinook Nation I am hopeful that you will include the family of Chris Stevens the former Ambassador to Libya that lost his life while working towards bringing lasting peace to the region, in your prayers."

Stevens' mother Mary Commanday is the first cousin of Chinook tribal elders Catherine Herrold Troeh and Charlotte Davis, both of whom are well known in Pacific County, the historic homeland of the tribe that met Lewis and Clark at the mouth of the Columbia River. Willapa Bay resident John Herrold is one of Stevens' local first cousins.

"This will be a hard time for their family and they will need our prayers," Gardner wrote.

Note new date!

Join us for a fun-filled day as we celebrate harvest time at the NS/S Conservation Farm in Patagonia. Festivities include bean stomping, farm tours, crop harvesting, potluck, music and more!

Bring appropriate clothing, hat, water, plate and silverware, musical instruments, and a yummy organic dish to share.

We'll see you on the Farm! 3 pm 'til the cows come home; potluck at 5:30 pm Location: NS/S Conservation Farm 45 Sa

45 San Antonio Rd. Patagonia, AZ 85624

Directions:

From Tucson, take I-10 east for 25 miles and exit at Highway 83, the Sonoita/Patagonia turnoff. In the town of Sonoita, turn west (right) toward Patagonia onto Highway 82. After 12 miles look for the Patagonia sign. Take the next left onto San Antonio Road. The sign above the entrance reads Red Mountain Ranch. Drive across the wash. The large, green barn will be on the right.

Wanna know the "dirt" on the best ways to farm or garden? Join us for the next NS/S Salon "How Do We Grow Our Food?" with some of our local farmers discussing their favorite growing methodologies, philosophies, and tricks of the trade. Growers will weigh in during a panel discussion.

The California Militia and "Expeditions Against the Indians", 1850 - 1859

Extracted from Early California Laws and Policies Related to California Indians By Kimberly Johnston-Dodds, California Research Bureau, California State Library, September 2002

That a war of extermination will continue to be waged between the races, until the Indian race becomes extinct, must be expected. While we cannot anticipate this result but with painful regret, the inevitable destiny of the race is beyond the power or wisdom of man to avert.

Governor Peter H. Burnett, January 7, 1851 [1]

The Governors and the Militia

Article VII of the first California Constitution gave the Governor the power "to call for the militia, to execute the laws of the State, to suppress insurrections, and repel invasions." [2] In his annual address to the California Legislature on January 7, 1851, Governor Burnett highlighted significant events that transpired during 1850, including "repeated calls…upon the Executive for the aid of the militia to resist and punish the attacks of the Indians upon the frontier." [3] During 1850, Governor Burnett called out the militia two times. The first order was prompted by incidents at the confluence of the Gila and Colorado rivers on April 23, 1850; in response, the Governor ordered the sheriffs of San Diego and Los Angeles to organize a total of 100 men to "pursue such energetic measures to punish the Indians, bring them to terms, and protect the emigrants on their way to California." [4] The second instance occurred in October 1850, when Governor Burnett ordered the sheriff of El Dorado County to muster 200 men. The commanders were instructed to "proceed to punish the Indians engaged in the late attacks in the vicinity of Ringgold, and along the emigrant trail leading from Salt Lake to California."[5]

Governor Burnett explained calling out the militia as follows:

In these cases the [Indian] attacks were far more formidable, and made at point where the two great emigrant trails enter the State...occurred at a period when the emigrants were arriving across the plains with their jaded and broken down animals, and them destitute of provisions. Under these circumstances, I deemed it due to humanity, and to our brethren arriving among us in a condition so helpless, to afford them all the protection within the power of the State...

Had it been once known to our fellow citizens east of the Rocky Mountains, that the Indians were most hostile and formidable on the latter and more difficult portion of the route...and that the State of California would render no assistance to parties so destitute, the emigration of families to the State across the plains would have been greatly interrupted and retarded. [6]

From 1997 to 1999, the Sacramento Genealogical Society researched and compiled an extensive index of the State Militia Muster Rolls located in the California State Archives. [7] The California State Archives contain Muster Rolls or organizational documents for 303 units located in most California counties. Seventy-one of the militias were located in San Francisco.[8] After exhaustive review and crosschecking of 70,000 registered names, the researchers determined that approximately 35,000 men were listed on the Muster Rolls (attendance records). [9] Muster Rolls may exist in other county or local archival repositories. The California State Archives does not have Muster Rolls for Colusa, Fresno, Glenn, Imperial, Inyo, Kern, Kings, Lake, Madera, Mendocino, Merced, Modoc, Riverside, San Benito, and Ventura counties for the period 1851 to 1866.

From the state archival record, it is impossible to determine exactly the total number of units and men engaged in attacks against the California Indians. However, during the period of 1850 to 1859, the official record does verify that the governors of California called out the militia on "Expeditions against the Indians" on a number of occasions, and at considerable expense, as Tables 1 and 2 indicate.

Table 1: "General Recapitulation of the Expenditures incurred by the State of California For the Subsistence and Pay of the Troops, composing of the different Military Expeditions, ordered out by the Governor, during the Years 1850, 1851 and 1852, For the Protection of the Lives and Property of her Citizens, and for the Suppression of Indian Hostilities within her Borders."

The California Legislature and the Militia

In April 1850, the California Legislature enacted two laws: An Act concerning Volunteer or Independent Companies, [10] and An Act concerning the organization of the Militia. [11] The Volunteer Act provided that citizens of any one county could:

- organize into a volunteer or independent company;
- arm and equip themselves in the same manner as the army of the United States;
- prepare muster rolls (attendance records) twice a year; and
- render prompt assistance and full obedience when summoned or commanded under the law.[12]

The lengthy Militia Act established in great detail the organization, ranks, rules, duties and commutation fees (fees in lieu of service) that governed state military service. All "free, white, able-bodied male citizens, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, residing in [the] State" were subject to state-mandated military duty.[13] Important provisions relating to the delegation of authority to command and call out troops provided that:

- the Governor was the commander in chief of all the forces in the state;
- • the Legislature elected four Major Generals, eight Brigadier Generals, one Adjutant General and Quarter Master General (with Brigadier General rank);
- the Governor commissioned all of the officers under the Act, who then took the oath of office prescribed by the California Constitution;
- the State Treasurer initially was the ex officio Pay Master; and
- upon the Governor's orders, the Sheriffs of each county were responsible to call the enrolled militia. [14]

In 1851, two laws set the rates of pay for the troops. [15] As shown in Table 2, Federal authorities considered the rates exorbitant in comparison to compensation to federal troops. [16]

Table 2 details the State's expenditures for expeditions from 1854 to 1859.
