Water Resources Development Act

Yesterday Barbara Boxer (D-California) and Senate colleague David Vitter (R-Louisiana) submitted a new Water Resources Development Act.

Last session of Congress, Boxer circulated a draft version of the bill, but it was not introduced. The act is a major piece of legislation. It authorizes billions in projects for the Army Corps of Engineers and sets policy guidelines. Some hurdles for the act's next iteration include a congressional ban on earmarks (a common tactic in past versions) and a $US 60 billion Army Corps project backlog.

The Environment and Public Works Committee will consider the bill on Wednesday March 20. If you love to watch government at work, the markup session will be webcast live at <http://epw.senate.gov> at 10:00 AM Eastern.

White House Blog Post: A Preview of the 2013 Economic Report of the President

You can view the blog post HERE.

Posted by Alan B. Krueger on March 15, 2013

This year's Economic Report of the President describes the progress we have made recovering from the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. After years of grueling recession, our businesses have created over six million new jobs. As a nation, we now buy more American cars than we have in 5 years, and less foreign oil than we have in 20 years. Our housing market is healing, and homeowners and consumers enjoy stronger protections than ever before. But there are still millions of Americans whose hard work and dedication have not yet been rewarded. Our economy is adding jobs, but too many of our fellow citizens still can't find fulltime employment. Corporate profits have reached all-time highs, but for more than a decade, wages and incomes for working Americans have barely budged. As President Obama has said, "A growing economy that creates good, middle-class jobs—that must be the North Star that guides our efforts."

Although economics has long been called "the dismal science," it is more appropriately viewed as a "hopeful science." The right mix of economic policies and leadership can help a country to recover from a deep recession and point to the investments and reforms that will build a stronger, more stable, and more prosperous economy that works for the middle class. Conversely, government dysfunction or misguided fiscal policy can cause self-inflicted wounds to the economy. This year's Economic Report of the President highlights the progress that has been made in recovering from the deepest recession since the Great Depression, together with the policies that the Obama Administration is advancing to address the fundamental imbalances and threats that have built up for decades and that have created severe stress on the middle class and those striving to get into the middle class.

This Report reviews the progress of the ongoing economic recovery during 2012 and highlights the main goals of the President's economic agenda. These goals include strengthening the foundations of economic growth by investing in education, research, and infrastructure, and by fixing a broken immigration system through commonsense immigration reform; ensuring fairness for the middle class by reforming the tax code and health insurance system; and bolstering the economy's resilience to future challenges by addressing the dangers of climate change, moving toward energy independence, pursuing a balanced approach to deficit reduction, adding safeguards to the financial system, opening up new markets for U.S. exports, and equipping American workers to compete in the global economy.

Finally, given the importance of economic data in driving economic policy and in helping households and businesses to make sound decisions, this year's Economic Report of the President continues the tradition of highlighting areas where economic data have improved or could improve further.

'Black Death pit' unearthed by Crossrail project

By Jason Palmer Science and technology reporter, BBC News

for pics, video and maps: http://world.einnews.com/article/142009429/I3MuPlvLS-P4SrT7?afid=777&utm\_source=MailingList&utm\_medium=email&utm\_campaign=Breaking+News%3A+world327-monday

Excavations for London's Crossrail project have unearthed bodies believed to date from the time of the Black Death.

A burial ground was known to be in an area outside the City of London, but its exact location remained a mystery.

Thirteen bodies have been found so far in the 5.5m-wide shaft at the edge of Charterhouse Square, alongside pottery dated to the mid-14th Century.

Analysis will shed light on the plague and the Londoners of the day.

DNA taken from the skeletons may also help chart the development and spread of the bacterium that caused the plague that became known as the Black Death.

Charterhouse Square lies in an area that was once outside the walls of London, referred to at the time as "No-man's Land".

By 1658, the area around Charterhouse Square (centre) had escaped its status as "no-man's land" The skeletons' arrangement in two neat rows suggests they date from the earliest era of the Black Death, before it fully developed into the pandemic that in later years saw bodies dumped haphazardly into mass graves.

Archaeologists working for Crossrail and the Museum of London will continue to dig in a bid to discover further remains, or any finds from earlier eras.

The £14.8bn Crossrail project aims to establish a 118km-long (73-mile) high-speed rail link with 37 stations across London, and is due to open in 2018.

Because of the project's underground scope, significant research was undertaken into the archaeology likely to be found during the course of the construction.

Footage shows osteologists lowered into the pit, and some of its finds

Taken together, the project's 40 sites comprise one of the UK's largest archaeological ventures.

Teams have already discovered skeletons near Liverpool Street, a Bronze-Age transport route, and an array of other finds, including the largest piece of amber ever found in the UK.

"We've found archaeology from pretty much all periods - from the very ancient prehistoric right up to a 20th-Century industrial site, but this site is probably the most important medieval site we've got," said Jay Carver, project archaeologist for Crossrail.

"This is one of the most significant discoveries - quite small in extent but highly significant because of its data and what is represented in the shaft," he told BBC News.

The find is providing more than just a precise location for the long-lost burial ground, said Nick Elsdon, project manager from the Museum of London Archaeology, which is working with Crossrail on its sites.

"We've got a snapshot of the population from the 14th Century - we'll look for signs that they'd done a lot of heavy, hard work, which will show on the bones, and general things about their health and their physique," he added.

DNA can be extracted from the teeth, which tend to better preserve it
"That tells us something about the population at the time - about them as individual people, as well as being victims of the Black Death."

In addition, the bodies may contain DNA from the bacteria responsible for the plague - from an early stage in the pandemic - helping modern epidemiologists track the development and spread of differing strains of a pathogen that still exists today.

"It's fantastic. Personally, as an archaeologist, finding good-quality archaeological data which is intact that hasn't been messed around by previous construction is always a great opportunity for new research information - that's why we do the job," said Mr Carver.

"Every hole we're digging is contributing info to London archaeologists, who are constantly piecing together and synthesising the information we've got for London as a whole - it's providing information to slot into that study of London and its history."

Globalist Gookooshens "Little Pig" Bob Rae Slithers thru Anishnaabe Aki

The Great Lie is that it is Civilization - John Trudell

"There's a lotta gold in them thar hills", someone once said. Now not only gold but chromite, zinc, platinum, palladium, etc., etc in Anishnaabe territory are attracting the earth plunderers. It's not just about digging for food. The "Ring of Fire" holds a vast wealth that some greedy people are willing to cheat, torture, slander, seduce and kill for.

Everybody knows that large-scale mining is harmful to the land, water, air, fauna and flora. Everybody knows that mining is not sustainable. What a ridiculous deceit to try to play on us all. Yet it appears many are falling for the lies. Blinded by gold dust, we'd say.

We cannot ignore the fact that many Indigenous people, still in severe culture shock, are struggling against extreme poverty in a rich rich land. Most of us have never benefited from the pillage and plunder before. What is different now??

We should know better. I think most of us do.

However, there is a well paid group of sellouts and traitors putting on a show of CONSENT. Figuring we're beat and might as well join "em", some of "our people" have sold their souls to the highest bidders. They're doing damage control for the globalists.

The imperial corporatists want foreign investment to flow freely. They've put the laws in place. They control the media. The top muckworms want to keep all their minions and pawns under control and towing the party line at all times.

Their biggest concern is Indigenous resistance because they know our Indigenous resistance is Just and True. All the legalistic finagling will fail in the end.

Any report in the news of Indigenous blockades, protests, belligerent statements and refusals to sign is met by Investors with cold feet and withdrawal of their "Venture capital", ie the financing for exploration and development.

Colonial law enforcement agencies try to show they have us under control because they have a few willing slaves like Robert Lovelace, Randy Cota, Mireille LaPointe, Doreen Davis, Shawn Atleo and Patrick Brazeau. The latest casualty appears to be Peter Moonias, one of nine chiefs from the Matawa First Nations, part of NAN Nishnaabe Aski Nation which covers 2/3 of Ontario. All this vast territory is still Anishnaabe Aki.

Matawa and the "Ring of Fire"

The Matawa Anishnaabe communities have been under attack by mining interests for some time. The chiefs are feted, wined, dined and entertained til their heads spin and they finally give in. When people are targeted by agents of psychological warfare, almost no one can resist. We all have our weaknesses. The colonial agents know how to isolate us and play on every fear, anxiety and pride. When half of community members are away, being bedazzled by city lights, the backbone of the community is missing.

According to Matawa First Nations Economic Development Advisor, Jason Paul Rasevych, "One of our main goals is to ensure that our First Nations people enjoy the same opportunities for employment, income, wealth creation and well-being as other Canadians."

Sounds like an assimilation plan to us. All the First Nations are corporations.

The mining frenzy now taking place in northern Ontario is like no other before. It's not the numbers of avaricious people rushing in. It is their high tech strategy and huge financial backing that has been refined through centuries of robbing the resources out from under Indigenous people. Like a violent storm, this an attack. There is no cover to run for.

This phenomenal wealth in Matawa, is not easy to get at. Of nine Matawa communities, four are accessible by road - Aroland, Constance Lake, Ginoogaming and Long Lake #58. The other five are accessible only by air, water or winter iceroad: Eabametoong, Marten Falls, Neskantaga, Nibinamik and Webequie. Plane tickets are not cheap to and from these communities. Mining reps and government officials frequently fly in and out on their various psychological operations psy ops. They like to do slide shows and give us free coffee and donuts.

What indication is there that Anishnaabek will receive "our share" this time?? How can we be sure our territories will not be left in desolate ruin after the valuable materials have been stolen? Experience teaches us that we cannot.

Have Indigenous people ever benefited yet from colonial resource plunder? No. So why do you think we'll get "our share" now? What have we done to make sure we get "our share" when our culture is destroyed and our land is stolen from us?? How does any of that equate? Some things cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Driving an SUV does not make you free.

The basis of the traditional ways is about self sufficiency. It's about a person's relationship with the land in the context of family and clan. The social unit remains relatively small. There is no dependence on Big Brother. If we buy into the mining frenzy of the 21st century, then we pay dearly. We force future generations to pay for our temporary gains.

Don't people have any memory? We used to have a totally oral history. Now we watch so much tv, we can't remember what we did last week? Let's refresh our memories a bit.

Falling for Globalist Bob Rae

Bob Rae and family have always been part of the elite. A number of things stand out as those little red flags.

"Little Pig" Bob is a lawyer and a Rhodes scholar. He's part of the in crowd of the "oath takers". Bob was always a part of the Liberal squad. He disingenuously became NDP premier of Ontario where he seamlessly continued the corporate tradition. At the time during the mid 1990's, there was a huge groundswell among Canadian working class people. Bob smashed that to pieces and paved the way for the unforgettable regime of Mike Harris.

Family Ties and the Tangled Web

Through his brother, John Rae, Executive VP at Power Corp., Gookooshens Bob has ties to the Desmarais Family and Maurice Strong. Strong was mentor to Paul Martin when they both worked for Power Corp. He was long time adviser to Paul Martin including when Martin was PM. Paul Martin Sr. Was a great friend of Sam Bronfman.

The Desmarais family lead the Canadian contingent of the water plot to divert and reverse Anishnaabe rivers from their northerly course to James Bay south to the Great Lakes and the USA. Paul Desmarais joined David Rockefeller's Trilateral Commission in September, 1993. Their sinister plans have been in the works for decades.

John Rae was campaign manager and adviser to Jean Chrétien from the 1960s until Chrétien retired in 2003. Sister, Jennifer Rae worked for many years for the IMAX Corporation. She dated globalist Pierre Trudeau when he was Canadian PM in the late 1960's. Chretien's daughter married Andre Desmarais. Former Conservative PM Brian Mulroney is currently counsel for Power Corp. thru his lawfirm, Ogilvy Renault.

The other thing that drives investors crazy is corporate scandal.

John Rae is a director at BNP Paribas and McGill University Health Centre Foundation MUHCF. BNP Paribas was instrumental in the oil for food scandal in Iraq. Another corruption scandal is currently unfolding in Montreal over the MUHCF superhospital. It involves the big corporate war monger, SNC Lavalin top executives and contracts in Algeria and Libya. See how the plot thickens!?

The Rae boys' father, Saul, was a career diplomat of Jewish and Scottish descent who was posted in Washington, Geneva, New York, Mexico and The Hague. He was on the first plane to land in France after the liberation in 1945. Saul claims nukers C.D. Howe and Lester Pearson as friends.

Today, the Desmarais/Power Corp. own a big part of French energy and water. This is no coincidence.

When he married Arlene Perly (of Perly Maps fame), Bob agreed to raise his children in the Jewish religion and Zionist politics.

Back in 2001 at Burnt Church, Mikmaq territory, Gookooshens Bob Rae was a mediator in a heated standoff between police and Mikmaq fishermen. With Bob's help, the RCMP did a good job of dismantling Indigenous resistance and thus sovereignty there for a time.

Bob Rae, Israel and War Mongering

Globalist Bob is right on side with Israeli political zionism and by association, anti Indigenous instigators like Gary McHale and Mark Vandermaas. Don't let their different coloured shirts fool you, they're all on the same team. Just because the JDL was critical of Bob in the media, doesn't change the fact they're buddies behind the scenes. As Liberal leader Gookooshens taped a 2012 Happy Hannukah greeting.

To be perfectly clear about Gookooshens Bob Rae's pro Israel stance, he published an announcement the other day while the Israel Truth Week was taking place in Hamilton. Bob condemned the Israeli Apartheid Week which seeks to publicize the Palestinian perspective, as "counterproductive". He makes ominous reference to hate speech legislation when he states, "we should be wary of group-vilifying speech that seeks to delegitimize or demonize". What kind of veiled threat is this toward Palestinian people who have just complaints of human rights abuse, etc. etc. well documented for decades by numerous organizations and groups. It sure sounds like a desperate attempt at damage control - an attack on free speech.

Bob describes hate speech in sweeping terms, "such speech seeks to delegitimize group members, reducing their social standing and acceptance within society."

Yes Bob, when people really know about Israeli atrocities and genocide against Palestinians, Israel's "social standing and acceptance within society" will be greatly reduced.

You might think Gookooshens Bob is a peace loving guy. Actually he's pushing for more Canadian military involvement in resource-rich Mali. That old gray war monger, former Deputy Minister of War in 1990, Robert Fowler is "whispering" in his ear. "Diplomatic Bob" is getting quite vociferous and openly belligerent about war making.

Like many of the elitists, Diplomatic Bob's insatiable greed for power and wealth, has gotten him into hot water. Back at the DND, he was implicated in scandal that led to an inquiry. He was absolved by the powers of the Crown Almighty. A top bureaucrat committed suicide. According to Scott Taylor, "...head of the executive Secretariat..Denys Henrie committed suicide in August 1992. Henrie named Bob Fowler (and four other senior DND bureaucrats) as "responsible" for his death in a hastily scribbled suicide note."

Today, both Imperialist Robert Fowler and Globalist Maurice Strong play active roles at the University of Ottawa as well as at the UN. Gookooshens Bob Rae likes to snuggle up with both of them.

Evidently, the Africans who kidnapped Fowler in Niger in 2008, knew more about him than most Canadians.

Thanks a Million Bob!!

Gookooshens Bob Rae is currently on tour at taxpayers expense, the 'Thanks a Million, Bob' tour. It probably cost a million to boost his popularity ratings. Or did Bob get paid a million dollars as a kissoff??

This week Gookooshens Bob was speaking to the Thunder Bay's Chamber of Commerce. He compared the Ring of Fire area to the potential recognized in the Sudbury basin 100 years ago, and said there are similar opportunities to "create prosperity, but prosperity has its challenges."

Rae went on to outline the three pillars he said are necessary to ensuring success in the Ring of Fire:

"The need to create prosperity from the minerals in the ground.

The need to share that prosperity with First Nations in the area.

The need to respect the environment and develop the mines in a sustainable way."

The lies just roll off his tongue like honey and like his mentor, Goebbels, Bob knows it's better to tell big lies than little lies.

We can hardly get to town to buy groceries but Bob gets a tour to spread more disinformation. As outgoing leader of the Liberals, he's been touring places from Whitehorse to Halifax with special attention to mining communities with large Indigenous population, like Sudbury, ThunderBay, Kenora and Dryden. Little Pig Bob will be roasted in Toronto on March 18 (Royal York Hotel, 5:30 – 8:00pm). You can get a free drink and snack in Ottawa (MacLaren's - 301Elgin St.) 6pm-10pm on March 20.

We in the South are far removed from Northern mining development. We can easily forget or ignore what is unfolding. Some day Reality will come to slap us in the face again. Meanwhile, we have a major struggle before us. When it seems hopeless, we must remember our future generations. It is our responsibility. We must never give up or give in.

Prime Minister Chrétien appointed Ambassador Fowler to be his Personal Representative for Africa; a position created at the G8 Summit in Genoa in July 2001.
