As we return from our adventures along the coast, it's with a mixture of emotions. Happy to be home but so much to do. Tomorrow I go back to work and start my last two weeks as the Indian Education Coordinator for WCSD, as I have accepted the position of Principal of Owyhee Combined School. My last day with WCSD will be next Friday, July 18. It has been an amazing 7 years serving the people of RSIC, PLPT and greater Reno-Sparks. It pulls at my heart to have to go. At the same time, I couldn't be happier to return to my home on the Duck Valley Indian Reservation to lead the school that I both started kindergarten in and graduated from. I left Owyhee 20 years ago and, after gaining education and experience, will be coming home, like our elders tell us to do, to give back to our people and community. We are all so excited but have so much to do.

National Funding

Worldwide Support for Children's Healthcare Projects Ronald McDonald House Charities
Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC) supports nonprofit organizations whose programs help improve the health and well being of children throughout the world. RMHC's Global Grants are provided to stable, efficient U.S.-based organizations that are national or global in scope. (Projects that are local in scope are not supported.) The current focus is on sustainable, replicable projects that include a train-the-trainer component in their pursuit of addressing the most pressing issues relating to children's healthcare. Online applications will be accepted through August 29, 2014. Visit the RMHC website to review the Global Grant guidelines.

Contemporary Visual Art Programs Funded The Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts

The purpose of the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts is to foster innovative artistic expression and the creative process by supporting cultural organizations that, in turn, support artists and their work. Grants are provided to curatorial programs at museums, artists' organizations, and other cultural institutions to originate innovative and scholarly presentations of contemporary visual arts. Projects may include exhibitions, catalogues, and other relevant activities. The Foundation has designated one of its grants, The Wynn Kramarsky Freedom of Artistic Expression Award, to recognize the work of organizations with a deep-seated commitment to defending the First Amendment rights of artists. The next postmark deadline for proposals to the Foundation is September 1, 2014. Visit the Foundation's website to review the grant guidelines.

Planning Grants for Climate Resilience Programs in Urban Areas

Kresge Foundation: Climate Resilience and Urban Opportunity

The Kresge Foundation's Environment Program is launching a new initiative, Climate Resilience and Urban Opportunity, to improve the resilience of low-income, urban communities in the face of climate change. The initiative is intended to assist community-based nonprofits positioned to help influence local and regional climate-resilience planning, and related policy development and implementation. The focus is on ensuring that climate resilience activities such as the management of precipitation from intense storms, efforts to reduce the health effects of heat waves, and the availability of clean energy technologies reflect the knowledge, priorities, and needs of low-income residents. The Foundation expects to award as many as 20 planning grants of up to $100,000 each. The deadline for submitting online statements of qualifications is July 31, 2014. Visit the Foundation's website to learn more about this initiative and the application process.

Healthy Community Initiatives Recognized Nationwide

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation: Culture of Health Prize

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Culture of Health Prize honors outstanding community efforts and partnerships across the United States that are helping people live healthier lives. Up to ten winning communities will each receive a $25,000 cash prize and have their success stories celebrated and shared broadly with the goal of raising awareness and inspiring locally-driven change across the country. For the purposes of this prize, "a community" is defined as one of the following: town, city, county, tribe or tribal community, or region (such as contiguous towns, cities, or counties). The Phase 1 application deadline is September 17, 2014. Visit the program's website to download the call for applications.

Regional Funding

Local Programs Supported in Bank Communities

BBVA Compass Foundation

The BBVA Compass Foundation supports nonprofit organizations that are making a positive impact in the communities the bank serves in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, New Mexico, New York, Puerto Rico, and Texas. The Foundation gives priority to requests that best reflect the following focus areas: community development/financial literacy, education, health and human services, arts and culture, environment and natural resources, and diversity and inclusion. Online applications are due September 30, 2014. (Organizations interested in applying should join one of the Charitable Contributions Process Conference Calls/Webinar Presentations held on July 25, August 15, and September 12 prior to submitting a grant request.) Visit the bank's website to learn more about the Foundation's guidelines and application process.

The Pride Foundation is dedicated to expanding opportunities and advancing full equality for LGBTQ people across the Northwest region of Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. The Foundation supports nonprofit organizations that promote equity and inspire courage, hope, innovation, collaboration, perseverance, and inclusivity for LGBTQ youth, adults, and families. Grants generally range between $1,000 and $10,000. The application deadline is August 4, 2014. Visit the Foundation's website to download the 2014 Community Grants Introduction and Overview.

Grants Enhance Environmental Initiatives in New England

New England Grassroots Environment Fund

The mission of the New England Grassroots Environment Fund is to energize and nurture long-term civic engagement in local initiatives that create and maintain healthy, just, safe, and environmentally sustainable communities. The Fund offers two grant programs designed to foster local community-based environmental initiatives in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. Seed Grants of $250 to $1,000 help volunteer groups launch and build their newly evolving projects. Requests for this program may be submitted throughout the year. Grow Grants of $1,000 to $3,500 enhance the ability of established groups to increase capacity, collaborate, and leverage impact. The upcoming application deadline for this program is September 15, 2014. Visit the Fund's website for more information about these grant programs.

Health and Wellness Programs in New Mexico Supported

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Mexico Corporate Giving Program

The Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Mexico Corporate Giving Program is committed to making New Mexico a healthier state. The company's Healthy Kids, Healthy Families initiative supports nonprofit organizations throughout the state that have measurable, sustainable programs that target children and their families through nutrition education, physical activity, disease prevention and management, or supporting safe environments. The application deadline is September 10, 2014. (The application deadline for general grant funding for organizations that promote health and wellness in company communities is November 12, 2014.) Visit the company's website to learn more about the application process for both grant programs.

Giant Mushroom Tower Sprouts at MoMA PS1

Sarah Cascone, Sunday, July 6, 2014

A giant building made of mushrooms and corn has sprouted in Queens at MoMA PS1 as part of the annual Young Architects Program, co-sponsored by the Museum of Modern Art and PS1. As reported by the New York Times, the tower, titled Hy-Fi, is the work of New York-based architects the Living.

Each year, emerging talents compete to build a temporary structure in the Long Island City institution's outdoor courtyard. As always, museum visitors will get the opportunity to experience the piece all summer, particularly during "Warm Up," the museum's popular outdoor concert series.

Hy-Fi measures 40 feet tall, with curving cylinders branching out from its base, but what is most remarkable about the project are its building materials. The Living, in collaboration with Ecovative, of Green Island, New York, have developed a special biodegradable brick made of agricultural byproducts, namely chopped up corn stalks, mixed with mycelium mushrooms.

The latter's living root structure fuse together the biological material, creating a solid object that can serve as a strong, lightweight, weather-resistant building material. The towering pavilion was thoroughly analyzed before it was build in order to make sure that the innovative bricks would be structurally sound.

"We can try to do things differently; we don't have to accept the ways that buildings are always designed," lead designer David Benjamin said in a video for the Creators Project. Without a doubt, Hy-Fi takes green, sustainable architecture and design to a new level, bringing architecture to life through actual living biological organisms.

At the end of the summer, the structure will be composted. A building that sprang from the earth will return to earth, literally "dust to dust."

The Living's Hy-Fi will be on view at MoMA PS1 through September 6.

The International Institute for Indigenous Resource Management and the Denver American Indian Commission are pleased to present another year of Indigenous Film @ Su Teatro, a monthly indigenous film series, with our annual sponsor the Native American Rights Fund. Our July 9th program will be a screening of short films celebrating Native Lacrosse, Skateboarding and the Stronghold Society's Live Life Movement. We are pleased to welcome the Stronghold Society as a cosponsor of this program. Details below.

Please join us the second Wednesday of every month at SU TEATRO, 721 Santa Fe Drive, Denver. Doors open at 6:00 pm, films begin at 6:30. pm. Come early and grab a bite to eat at the Su Teatro concession -- from popcorn to tamales, it gets our vote for best theater munchies in the city.

Hope to see you there.

The Stream, July 7: Researchers Quantify 'Virtual Water' Flows in China

Daily global water news...

Water Scarcity

New research has quantified the amount of water being virtually exported from and imported to Chinese provinces, confirming that arid regions are sending huge amounts of water to more water-rich areas in the form of agricultural products, Reuters reported. The research, published in the journal Environmental Science and Technology, found that this imbalance is effectively outsourcing environmental problems to the arid regions, while much of the benefit is being felt in wetter, industrialized areas that export the final products.

Growing water scarcity in Texas is placing pressure on water users in the Brazos River basin, including major manufacturing plants for Dow Chemical, The Texas Tribune reported. Dow is the most senior water rights holder in the basin, meaning it could force agricultural and municipal users to cut back on their water use if river management is not improved.

Water Conflict

Distrust of the government is at the heart of a water conflict outside of Mexico City, the Los Angeles Times reported. A violent protest in May over a proposed water pipeline centered on one community's belief that the government was planning to steal their water and give it to a more affluent city nearby—a claim that the government disputes.

Glaciers

Soil erosion and particulate air pollution are creating dust that is darkening snow on the world's ice caps and glaciers, speeding their melting, the Guardian reported. The dust creates a darker surface that causes the snow to absorb more heat from the sun, and as glaciers and ice caps retreat, more soil is exposed to erosion, fueling the process.
