SOCIAL MEDIA & DISASTER COMMUNICATIONS CHECKLIST

When disaster strikes, your employees and customers are listening and looking to you for real time answers.

But when it comes to using social media to communicate important information, what does a good strategy look like and how do you make it effective?

Use this checklist to help your organization develop an effective social media and disaster communication strategy. Follow the simple steps below and you'll be on your way to a rock-solid plan.

BEFORE AN EMERGENCY: Build your voice. Earn trust.

Designate a Social Media Manager to manage your account. Make sure your social media manager knows how to communicate properly and can react professionally. Make sure they have the right judgment to make quick decisions. Your online voice should reflect your organization.

Establish a voice TODAY. No matter the business, everyone can benefit from using social media. Keep your account active and engaging year-round by sharing:

- Company updates, awards and other news
- Industry news & blogs
- Tips and resources related to your industry

Plan ahead. Create a content repository to store anticipated FAQ's & ready-to-post resources and links including information on:

- Non-emergency related info listed above
- Local news websites

- Important websites you will need to reference during an emergency. (FEMA, Red Cross, Local News stations, local government, local businesses etc)

Build your network. Follow other local business & organizations. Do not follow everyone that follows you. Try to follow only those accounts that are directly valuable to your organization.

Spread the word. Let employees and customers know you've gone social.

- Considering hosting a Lunch & Learn to educate employees on your social media communication strategy.
- Assist and encourage non-social users to set up accounts and learn the ropes.
- Hold a contest to encourage employees to participate.

Work with your communications/PR team to coordinate a policy. Share policy with employees.

Use an online monitoring tool to help schedule posts, filter messages and keep communication efficient. (Many sites offer free services, ie. hootsuite)

Create an "emergency employee-only" hashtag. i.e. #agilityemployees. Use this hashtag to relay important info to employees such as office closures, delays, alternate locations or other updates.

Make sure employees are aware of this special hashtag BEFORE an emergency.

Have back up. Designate one or more team members (depending on your organization's size) who are well versed in your plan and can assist in the event of a large scale emergency.

Keep it up. Don't neglect your account for days or weeks on end. Share tips and resources mentioned above to keep followers engaged.

DURING AN EMERGENCY: Respond effectively.

Assess the situation. Understand the emergency at hand and gather all materials you will need including; content repository, web pages, a copy of your communication plan, etc.

Speak up. Let your followers know you're aware of the situation as you assess your next steps. Post a message to your followers such as: "We're working to get you the best information. Stay tuned."

Join the conversation. Use hashtags to connect your tweets with others talking about the event:

- Identify trending hashtags in the event of weather or regional emergencies.
- Use your emergency employee-hashtag to send out employee updates.

Monitor keywords, including your organization's name and emergency-only employee hashtag. Use the search feature on twitter or set up alert notifications via your online monitoring tool.

Provide accurate, clear and trusted information throughout the event:

- News and updates
- Employee specific updates using your emergency-only employee hashtag
- Impact of the emergency to your organization, i.e. closures, delays.
- (Refer to your content repository for FAQ's & important links.)

Listen to local news and radio for real time updates, if available. Share updates if relevant.

Be timely. Respond to concerns and posts in a timely manner. During an emergency, your employees & customers will listen to anyone talking. Let followers know when you will provide more updates.

Respond to problems. Be calm - Your followers are likely to be frantic, panicked, uncertain and frustrated. When responding:

- Acknowledge the issue. Let them know they are heard and you are there.
- Address the issue: Provide helpful resources.
- Apologize when necessary and show empathy. Offer to discuss offline if necessary.
- Identify and address any rumors or false information related to your organization.
- Be cautious of word choice and tone. Stay neutral and keep communications helpful and professional.

Consider “geotagging” your keyword & hashtag searches for popular hashtags such as #flood, #fire to help identify flood and fire discussions for your specific area. (*See more about geotagging at the end of this checklist)

Consider converting links to shortened & trackable URL codes using a free service like Bitly.com. This will help keep messages under 140 characters and will identify which information your followers find the most useful.

Unless authorized, do not give official statements or handle media inquiries via social media.
*Make sure employees are fully aware of this policy.

AFTER AN EMERGENCY: Follow up and measure.

Continue to communicate. Share relevant information including;

- Updates on your organization’s status after the event
- Closures/Hours of service
- Product availability
- Alternate office locations

Measure. Use data to understand what your audience found useful to help guide social media operations moving forward:

- If you converted your links to shortened Bitly.com links, identify which resources your followers found most useful by analyzing click rate statistics on each link.
- Identify what information received the most retweets and mentions.

Follow up with any concerns you were unable to address during the experience. Apologize for any delay and follow up accordingly. It’s better to respond late than never at all.

Recap. Hold a debriefing session after the emergency with other team members to discuss lessons learned and how to improve your social media communication strategy.

Include employees in the recap process. Send a survey, ask for suggestions.

Repeat. Keep your social feeds active! Go back to posting regular updates, resources and tips.

Additional Resources:

Whether you're a social media pro or just starting out, the world of social communications is constantly evolving. That's why we've created the following list of free resources that will help you plan and prepare as you develop your organization's social media and disaster communication strategy.

How to: Link

Set up a Twitter account: <https://twitter.com/signup>.

Geotag your twitter searches: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Q3coB42XVtM>

Use Hashtags: <https://dev.twitter.com/media/hashtags>

Create Buttons: <https://twitter.com/about/resources/buttons>

Creating track-able bit.ly links: <https://bitly.com/>

Stay in the know: <http://socialmediatoday.com/>

A Word of Advice:

We hope you find this checklist useful. As you develop your social media communications strategy, remember to stick with it. Building an online voice takes time.

Just remember - when disaster strikes; your employees and customers are looking to you for answers. Be there by developing your organization's social media and disaster communication strategy today.

October Director's Message from the UpNext Blog: Public Libraries Can Be Catalysts for Community Transformation

Library leaders have a new ally. The Aspen Institute, an education and policy organization located in Washington D.C. has just published "Rising to the Challenge: Re-Envisioning Public Libraries." The report explores how libraries can be a catalyst for community transformation.

It is a great read, powered by contributions from high-profile thinkers, library professionals, policymakers, technology experts, philanthropists, educators, and civic leaders. It offers a renewed vision for library engagement in communities' success. Through clear discussion and concise case studies, the report summarizes the assets of public libraries and describes four strategies for success:

- Aligning library services in support of community goals
- Providing access to content in all formats
- Ensuring long-term sustainability for public libraries
- Cultivating leadership

The report concludes with 15 action steps for library leaders, policymakers, and the community to use.

I had the honor of being part of the Aspen Institute Dialogue on Public Libraries, funded by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, that led to this report. In a series of conversations convened by the Aspen Institute, we explored and championed new thinking on U.S. public libraries and developed concrete actions to support and transform public libraries for a more diverse, mobile and connected society. Our discussions focused on the impact of the digital revolution on access to information, knowledge, and the conduct of daily life.

At IMLS, we look forward to continuing to partner with the Aspen Institute. I believe we are stronger when others outside the library community recognize how libraries can address growing economic and social divides, strengthen communities, and enable individual success. —Susan Hildreth, Director, IMLS

Getting Your Shit Together

Douglas Jack 2014-10-28 00:03

Geoff Lawton's video My 3 Cow Biogas Digester <http://www.geofflawton.com/fe/70595-biogas-system?r=y> Hands on & doable with the appropriate references to the Gobar gas source in Nepal links similar online plans from Afghanistan.

Bio-digestion-toilet e-link in above comment

You'll be interested in Vermont's COW POWER program. Above's a link to a film which I made with Radio-Canada on biodigestion featuring Cow Power among others in Sweden & Canada. On farms of 1000 cows, they've got the system 'hands-off' automatized with sweepers constantly cleaning the cow-barn poop-ing areas, all descending by gravity to a tennis court size underground flow-through a horizontal "U" shaped tank. The high mountain dairy we visited burns the methane for electricity fed into the Vermont Grid. Cow-Power provides 1% of Vermont's electricity. Once fecal materials give off their methane, the resulting fertilizer is odourless & therefore easy to sell. This processed material then comes up trays on a conveyor belt to a press which separates the 'manure-tea' from 'manure-solids' . Cow Power increases a 2 million USD dairy by 750,000$ / year in electric sales (Greater revenues are available when the gas is used directly as you do for heating & cooking) plus 250,000$ / year in odourless fertilizer sales. For humans separating our urine for direct use on mulches & addition of kitchen fruit & vegetables cuttings increases the methane output.

Douglas Jack 2014-10-27 23:51

brux, Its about getting your shit together.

Humanity's worldwide universal 'indigenous' (Latin 'self-generatin g') peoples & all our ancestry just happen to know this, so take a clue where its warranted.

Cities with millions of human fecal matter poopers have huge natural gas resources, which can be tapped at the multihome building, individual home, institutional & business building level without flush water transport. Bio methane-digesti on, capture & use is easy low cost for every building with a 2 year payback period in decentralized energy security, odourless fertilizer. When combined with kitchen fruit & vegetable cuttings, we can also capture alcohol in the liquid slurry portion. All that nature requires us to do is get our 'shit' together. Here are two references, & please contact Indigene Community for more detailed plans. . <https://sites.google.com/site/indigenecommunity/design/5-bio-digestion-toilet>

USA, Canada, Europe have more energy resources in our cities than we know what to do with but, when we use them we clean up our air, rivers, lakes & lands by default. Take a look at the complementary wind, water, embodied energy in materials & other concentrated sources which otherwise would cause humans damage when they are untapped where we live. City-based generation has little transmission cost. <https://sites.google.com/site/indigenecommunity/design/9-complementary-energy>
