First native-owned Starbucks being built - Coffee shop will be built near I-40By
Devon Armijo Bio Published 11:02 AM MDT Jul 22, 2015

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —The first ever Native American-owned Starbucks is being built in Albuquerque.

It's part of a larger retail center that's planned to go across the street from the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center, near Interstate 40.

A corporation owned by more than a dozen pueblos broke ground Tuesday.

Besides Starbucks, there are plans for more shops, including retail and restaurants. Those behind the project said it's a great example of collaboration between pueblo leaders and the city and state.

A must read. Being Native is hard but beautiful, Honor yourselves because that's what our ancestors would have wanted. They sacrificed their lives so we can keep our ways. So very Thankful for those in our community who give up their time just to teach the native youth our culture, our language n giving us activities to do as a family!!

#DearNativeYouth: It Gets Greater Later

Being Native is hard and complex -- it's also a privilege and a gift.

Royal Dutch Shell PLC has been given permits for limited drilling in Arctic waters by the Obama administration. Shell is only allowed to drill the top of wells, because equipment necessary to contain leaks is currently being repaired, but may apply for deeper drilling once the equipment is ready to deploy. A Shell spokeswoman said in an e-mail that the permitting process is now ending, and drilling will begin as soon as sea ice clears. New York Times

NO, NOT only Seattle, "the next full-margin rupture of the Cascadia subduction zone will spell the worst natural disaster in the history of the continent". This would devastate all land west of the Cascade Mountains from Mt. Lassen up to just above the Canadian Border. They are predicting a 10% chance of this full-margin rupture occurring within the next 50 years. Unless the Earth's Geology as it has manifested over the last 10,000 years somehow stops it is certain that these quakes will eventually strike.

From another article ["Superquakes, supercycles, and global earthquake clustering", Jan 2013, written by Chris Goldfinger, Yasutaka Ikeda and Robert S. Yeats, scientists whose work inspired the article of this post]: ocean floor sediment samples, and other geologic records are showing "an apparent clustering of great earthquakes into groups of four to five events, with 700- to 1,000-year gaps between the clusters. The turbidites also provide clues to the magnitudes of past events, and to the buildup and release of energy over time...The plots ... show that ... when Cascadia is at a high-energy state, it appears equally likely to rupture in single very large (maybe magnitude-9.1) earthquake or in a series of somewhat smaller (but still giant) magnitude-8.8 to -9 earthquakes to relieve stress." [the logarithmic scale used for the magnitude of earthquakes makes "a magnitude-9.1 quake, ... 44 percent larger than a magnitude-9 quake" . So sayeth the 2013 article:

home/?src=fbfan\_39147&t=fbad&k=1">Vina Lustado's tiny home is so beautiful, it's difficult to believe that it's only 140 square feet! After a modest upbringing in the Philippines, this innovative homeowner and designer decided to lay down roots in Ojai, California. To this day, she values a simplistic lifestyle reminiscent of her childhood and deliberately chooses to invest her time in meaningful things like family and relationships, rather than toil over the maintenance of a large home.

Positioned in a south-facing direction for efficient heating and cooling, Vina's breathtaking tiny home is constructed out of rot-resistant cedar and is actually lightweight enough to be transported by truck. Her water system also recycles all water, which she then uses to nurture the gorgeous vegetation surrounding the property. However, Vina's humble abode isn't without its luxury items (such as a propane gas fireplace and a 10-foot-long skylight loft), proving what an architectural masterpiece this place truly is.

It's all too easy to admire Vina's simple-yet-oh-so-chic property; she truly proves how little space is needed in order to find happiness. What did you think of her domestic oasis in Ojai? Would you ever be interested in joining the tiny home movement? Sound off in the comments below and make sure to share if you found this place as glorious as we did!

Fairann Mardele Fisk (1970 - 2015)

Guest Book

Be the first to share your memories or express your condolences in the Guest Book for Fairann Mardele Fisk. View Sign

Fairann Mardele Fisk passed away following a lengthy illness. She is preceded in death by her sisters Fleurisa and Felicity, her paternal grandfather Walter Merril, several aunts, uncles, and cousins. She leaves behind her life partner and best friend Julie Baker, her parents Frank and Anita, her brother Frank (Ashley) and nephews Noah and Graham, and her beloved paternal grandmother Adele Fisk Guisti. Fairann was part of a large extended family who cherished her zest for life and her adventurous spirit.

Fairann grew up in small town Nevada, beginning first in Wadsworth before moving to Battle Mountain and then to Lovelock. She graduated from Pershing County High School with the Class of '88. She was an athlete, playing baseball, basketball, soccer, swimming, softball, and rock climbing. She loved the Cleveland Browns, boxing, and tennis. Fairann loved music, especially '80s heavy metal. She played the trapset for her high school band and sang in the choir. Since childhood Fairann was an artist; later, she won tremendous accolades for her art displays for Tower Records. She had aspirations of joining the UNR Pep Band and of publishing her writings. She was always intrigued with tattoos and aspired to become a tattoo artist. Fairann could quote verbatim hundreds of movie passages and identify a song and its singer with the fewest of hints. She had the skills and talent to create beauty and wonder where once stood hatred and fear. Throughout her life she was staunchly loyal and a fierce competitor.

Fairann Fisk was a member of the Te-Moak Shoshone Indian Tribe and remained a strong supporter of equal rights for all people. Her services were held on Saturday, July 18, 2015. In lieu of flowers her family asks that friends and family donate to the Fairann Fisk Scholarship for the Creative Arts through the Wells Fargo bank.
