Jeff Haas,

Truthout: Resistance against the Dakota Access pipeline has captured the support of those fighting for clean water, Indigenous rights and against catastrophic climate change. It has also increased the pushback from law enforcement, and the campaign is now in dire need of pro bono legal assistance.

Things are still very tense at Standing Rock. Really important to keep some awareness on Standing Rock. Things can only get uglier as the cold weather moves in and the fair weather activists leave.

Many postings still on FB but FB can shut down at any time. If there is a blackout, I hate to think what could happen. Kittoh

It's against this backdrop that the measurements on top of Mauna Loa take on added importance. They're a reminder that with each passing day, we're moving further from the climate humans have known and thrived in and closer to a more unstable future.

Contractor Behind DAPL Assessment Was Working on Connecting Pipeline for the Same Company

Itai Vardi, DeSmogBlog: A private firm that conducted the environmental review for the highly contentious Dakota Access pipeline was simultaneously working for Energy Transfer, the company behind the project, on a connecting pipeline. During the review period, the firm advocated for opening new regions for oil-and-gas drilling. Read the Article

Good morning all my relatives in the 4-directions,

Thank you relatives for all your support, prayers and good words. It takes me a few hours everyday to read all your comments, post and emails. I greatly appreciate it, plus I do respond to you all.

I did not realize how far these messages have reached the 4 corners of the GLOBE and all through Indian Country.

I would like to Thank Indigenous Environmental Network and the Chinese Progressive association (CPA). CPA, they do youth work, housing, righting for Chinese workers to get proper wages, lots of advocacy work for their people..

Everyday is different, fast paced and always good work to do in a good way.

Many blessings and thank you all again for your powerful messages, prayers and strong blessings. Peshu u

Reality at Standing Rock

Kenny Frost

Armed descendant of the Indian Wars of the 1800's living up to his family reputation as an Indian Killer.

Look how powerful, mean and looks to kill an Indian child. His proud, tough bully of a police officer aiming his fully loaded shotgun at a totally unarmed little girl.

I bet, he sleeps good at night knowing he has traumatized a young native girl who only came in peace to pray for the destruction of Mother Earth only to be scared to death she may lose her life on this given day on Wednesday, Sept 28, 2016 at approximately 2 pm.

A day which will be marked as a dark day in ND history of arresting peaceful unarmed people who only crime was praying at the destruction of Mother Earth.

I bet he goes back to his office smiling, acting all tough how he pointed a weapon at a young girl. How does he sleep at night knowing he has done this. Does he even care what he did?

Violations of Rule of Engagement. Pointing a weapon at those who you feel as being threaten by using the same use of lethal force. Meaning our defenseless prayer people must have a weapon pointed back at him.

This hurts me more then anything to see our children's mistreated then anything's, then to see our elders and then our women's. I'll always stand up for our children's, our elders and our women's as no one deserves to be mistreated at all.

A direct violation of police Standard Of Operation. Oh yes, we're in Sd these SOP don't apply here as the governor, sheriff believes people don't have rights or civil rights as well as due process don't apply in this state to those who are arrested.

Shaking my head.

The International Criminal Court Will Start Prosecuting People Who Commit Crimes Against the Environment

Tara Smith, The Conversation: It's great that environmental crimes are now being considered at the highest level of global justice. But the ICC alone isn't enough. A thorough approach also requires individuals and corporate bodies to become financially liable for the consequences of environment-based atrocities. Read the Article

My opinion...the arts, music and art, were taken out of school and drugs came into schools.

Here is the deal: we have two lobes in our brain. Indigenous peoples used both lobes of their brains with music and ritual as they searched to understand their world. The "rational" society that seeks only more knowledge for its children denies the enhancement of abilities using both hemispheres of the brain. We get knowledge knowing but non- empathetic children.

RIP Tony Langweather (passed at 11:45 a.m. on 9.29) No service information at "press time". Call RSIC for more information.

Connie Anderson

Connie passed away peacefully of natural causes on September 3rd, in her home in Sparks, Nevada. She was 74 years old and was surrounded by friends and family. Connie was born in Pine Ridge, South Dakota on August 23rd, 1942. She was the first born of Alice Lee and Charles Parkhurst. She was a member of the Oglala Sioux Native Indian tribe.

During her high school years she moved to Wolf Point, Montana. In 1967, Connie moved to Reno and by the late '60's she was blessed with the birth of her son, Chris. By the mid 1970's she had her second child, Fiana.

Connie was a smart, strong-willed and independent person. She chose to continue her education and graduated with a Bachelor Degree in Economics from UNR in 1985 and went to work for Washoe Legal Services. In 1987, she was appointed to the Sparks Planning Commission and then reappointed again 1988 to serve a four year term. In 1993, she was hired as an Administrative Analyst with TMRPA. She was continually promoted and deservedly gained the position of Regional Planner.

In 2007 she had three wonderful milestones: Connie became a grandmother to Dominic, she received a Master Degree in Planning from UNR, and she retired from working with TMRPA after serving fourteen years. Connie was very involved and politically active, frequently attending City Council meetings.

Her daughter Fiana describes her as positive, kind, funny, strong, intelligent and beautiful.

Connie was preceded in death by her parents and her brother John Parkhurst. She is survived by her son, Chris Anderson and daughter, Fiana Anderson, as well as her sister Beverly Monday.

There will be a Celebration of Life at her home in Sparks on October 1st, at 2pm. We would like to give special thanks to Jeff Dold and Sherry Huckaby for all the support and love.
