in state government, allowing each state archivist to reach out and invite colleagues, including senior managers, IT officials, and state agency records officers, to attend.

First up this year is *Protect and Preserve Your Digital Information Long-Term: A Briefing for Information Professionals & Practitioners* on January 24, 2017 from 2:00-3:00 PM EST. Register Here

State archivists received template invitations for the January webinar, to personalize as invitations to their state IT staff. An additional template invitation to the February series for records officers is coming soon. Plan to attend these webinars and invite others in state government, or host a webinar viewing party at the state archives. No matter the venue, be sure to take advantage of this opportunity to share ideas about the benefits of digital preservation with others in state government.

Partnership Puts Records Online

A partnership between the Arizona State Archives and Ancestry resulted in new online data that includes the Arizona territorial census records from 1864 through 1882. The records provide information such as name, place of residence, age, ethnic background and occupation of more than 85,000 Arizona residents of the time. The online records also now include: school census records, marriage records, wills and probate records and early state prison records. Deputy State Archivist Dennis Preisler said "This partnership allows historians, demographers, sociologists, students of Arizona history and genealogists access to over three million names in ten separate record collections."

Funding and Technical Assistance Opportunities

1. Gulf Coast Conservation Grants, National Fish and Wildlife Foundation
2. Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act State Implementation Support Grant, EPA
3. Environmental Education Grants, Captain Planet Foundation

4. Environmental Grants, Patagonia
5. Creativity Connects, National Endowment for the Arts

1. Gulf Coast Conservation Grants, National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Details here. Application closes January 26, 2017. Funding amount: $50,000 - $250,000

"The National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF) is soliciting proposals to support conservation projects that enhance coastal ecosystems of the Gulf of Mexico and bolster priority fish and wildlife populations, while strengthening resilience within the coastal region.

The program seeks to build and maintain the resilience of the Gulf Coast's ecosystems, living resources and communities by supporting critical gaps in conservation and catalyzing conservation solutions through strategic planning, innovation and technology that can be applied at a landscape scale. Specific priorities focus on strengthening coastal resilience; advancing conservation and management on private lands for wildlife and water quality; and conserving living resources by protecting and accelerating the recovery of key species dependent on the Gulf, including coastal birds, sea turtles, marine mammals, and oysters. Eligible applicants include non-profit 501(c) organizations, U.S. Federal government agencies, state government agencies, county and municipal governments, Indian tribes and educational institutions."

2. Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act State Implementation Support Grant Details here. Application closes January 31, 2017. Funding amount: The maximum amount for the cooperative agreement is $1,000,000.

The EPA is announcing $1 million in a grant to provide support state implementation support related to CERCLA 128(a). The EPA anticipates award of one cooperative agreement to support state implementation for CERCLA 128(a) and other brownfields related issues. The purpose of this cooperative agreement is to fund research, training, and technical assistance to promote and stimulate information exchange among State officials managing solid, hazardous and brownfields response programs (response programs), and EPA officials to jointly resolve Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), Section 128(a) "co-implementor and co-regulator" issues, and identify emerging response program issues that are of interest to States.

3. Environmental Education Grants, Captain Planet Foundation Details here. Funding range: $500 to $2,500 Applications due by January 31, 2017.

"The mission of the Captain Planet Foundation is to give the next generation of environmental stewards an active understanding and love for the natural world in which they live. The Captain Planet Foundation primarily makes grants to U.S.-

based schools and organizations with an annual operating budget of less than $3 million. Grants from the Captain Planet Foundation are intended to:

- Provide hands-on environmental stewardship opportunities for youth;
- Serve as a catalyst to getting environment-based education in schools;
- Inspire youth and communities to participate in community service through environmental stewardship activities."

4. Environmental Grants, Patagonia Details here. Application closes April 30, 2017. Funding amount: $2,500 - $15,000

"We support small, grassroots, activist organizations with provocative direct-action agendas, working on multi-pronged campaigns to preserve and protect our environment. Your efforts should be quantifiable, with specific goals, objectives and action plans, and should include measures for evaluating success. We fund work that:

- is action-oriented
- builds public involvement and support
- is strategic
- focuses on root causes
- accomplishes specific goals and objectives

We accept one proposal per group, per fiscal year (May 1st - April 30th)."

5. Creativity Connects, National Endowment for the Arts Details here. Applications close May 04, 2017. Funding amount: $20,000 - $100,000
(Please note NEA is proposed for closure by incoming administration)

"Creativity Connects is an initiative that shows how the arts contribute to the nation's creative ecosystem, investigates how support systems for the arts are changing, explores how the arts can connect with other sectors that want and utilize creativity, and invests in innovative projects to spark new, collaborative ideas. A key component of Creativity Connects is a grant opportunity in the Art Works category that supports collaborative, mutually beneficial partnerships between the arts and non-arts sectors, specifically: Agriculture, Business and Economic Development, Science, Technology, Healthcare, Community, Education, Environment, Military, Transportation. Applicant Eligibility: Nonprofit, tax-exempt 501(c)(3), U.S. organizations; units of state or local government; or federally recognized tribal communities or tribes may apply."

Alabama Media Group is donating its massive collection of historical photographic negatives chronicling the people, places and events of the 20th century to the Alabama Department of Archives and History, where the images will be preserved, catalogued, digitized and made available online to the public.

Containing more than 3 million images from The Birmingham News, The Huntsville Times and Mobile's Press-Register, the collection is the largest gift of historical content received by the state archives in its 115-year history. Most of these photo negatives have never been printed or published. "The breadth and depth of the collection are astonishing," said ADAH director Steve Murray. "We have only begun surveying the materials, but we can already tell that this will be an unparalleled resource for students, educators and researchers studying 20th century Alabama."

Proposed cuts hit a lot of areas that protect, educate and advance scientific discovery. NEA & NEH are called "waste" by the Heritage Foundation. 40% of the budget of the NEA "waste" is distributed to the states, who then match that distribution and distribute as arts grants. No big deal, right? Except those funds help to support arts organizations whose performances generate spending by locals and visitors in your cities and counties.
