I'm writing from Idealist.org to invite you to attend one of the 10 Idealist Graduate School Fairs we are hosting this fall, presented by Columbia University's School of Professional Studies.

If you've been thinking of applying to graduate school, this is a great opportunity to meet one-on-one with admissions staff from hundreds of public-interest graduate programs across the United States and around the world.

The fair is free to attend and great for anyone interested in a socially-minded career path, or looking to advance in the nonprofit or public service sectors.

Click on the fair in your city to see more information about the fair, including the list of all the schools that will be in attendance. RSVP NOW

Here's the schedule for the 10 fairs (all of these run from 5:00 to 8:00 PM local time):

New York - September 19

Boston - September 25

Washington, DC - October 2

Chicago - October 5

San Francisco - October 11

Atlanta - September 20

Philadelphia - September 26

Minneapolis - October 4

Seattle - October 9

Los Angeles - October 12

Please share this information with friends and colleagues who may be interested in attending. If you have any questions about the fair, please contact us at www.idealistschool.org/contact-us, or visit www.idealistschool.org/attend-a-fair.

Wednesday, August 30th, will be one of the most important days in Walker Lake history. The United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in Pasadena, California will hear the case to determine if rightfully purchased water rights for Walker Lake, currently owned and maintained by Walker Basin Conservancy will be able to flow to Walker Lake. This is essentially decades in the making and hopefully will truly Save Walker Lake! The courts decision will most likely take several months to be determined but will have a lasting impact unlike any other court case in the past. Save Walker Lake!!!

Alaska's Permafrost Is Thawing

The loss of frozen ground in Arctic regions is a striking result of climate change. And it is also a cause of more warming to come.

Alaska's permafrost is quickly diminishing, according to research by Woods Hole Research Center. In certain areas, temperatures at a depth of 65 feet have risen by 5 degrees Celsius in recent years. As the permafrost thaws, it will release long-frozen carbon dioxide into atmosphere, which could raise global temperatures by up to 1.7 degrees Fahrenheit. The New York Times

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and U.S. Forest Service are preparing to issue permits allowing drilling along the Green-Toutle River in Washington State. However, proposed mining operations could lead to acid mine drainage into the Green River, which supplies drinking water to several communities. This danger has inspired residents to start a petition asking the BLM and U.S. Forest Service to deny any mining permits that would threaten the river. American Rivers

“My message is short and direct: We are not Flint, Michigan.” –Senator Robert Hertzberg, co-author of Senate Bill 623, which would require Californians to pay 95 cents per month toward the Safe and Affordable Drinking Water Fund. The tax would generate $2 billion over 15 years, and would be used to pay for emergency water and long-term infrastructure fixes. Opponents of the bill argue that water should remain free and water issues should be addressed using tax money from a general fund. *Mercury News*

National Funding

Support for Forest Management Coalitions in the U.S. and Canada

Sustainable Forestry Initiative: Conservation and Community Partnerships Grant Program

The Sustainable Forestry Initiative's (SFI) Conservation and Community Partnerships Grant Program provides grants for projects that support partnerships between organizations interested in improving forest management in the U.S. and Canada and responsible procurement globally. Grants are provided in the following two categories: Community Grants ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 support projects that connect communities to forests and educate the next generation of future forest leaders. Conservation Grants ranging from $15,000 to $30,000 support projects that establish methodologies to demonstrate the conservation-related values of SFI-certified forestlands. The application deadline for both grant categories is October 10, 2017. Visit the SFI website to review the request for proposals.

Projects Promoting Safety in Diagnostic Imaging Funded

AHRA and Toshiba Putting Patients First Program

The AHRA (Association for Medical Imaging Management) and Toshiba Putting Patients First Program seeks to improve pediatric and adult patient care and safety in diagnostic imaging. In 2017, the program will provide six grants of up to $7,500 each to single-site hospitals and imaging centers located in the United States. Three grants will be awarded for projects that improve the safety and comfort of pediatric imaging and three grants will be awarded for projects that improve diagnostic imaging. In addition, one grant of up to $20,000 will be awarded to an Integrated Delivery Network (IDN) or hospital system for projects that improve overall patient care and safety in imaging implemented across the IDN/hospital system. The projects funded by these grants will be used to create a best-practices tool to share with other hospitals and institutions. The application deadline is October 30, 2017. Application guidelines and forms are available on the AHRA website.

Grants Preserve Recorded Sound and Explore the Positive Effects of Music

GRAMMY Museum Grant Program

The aim of the GRAMMY Museum Grant Program is to advance the archiving of the recorded sound heritage of the Americas and to explore the impact of music on the human condition. The Program provides support to organizations and individuals in the following areas: The Archiving and Preservation Projects category supports efforts that advance the archiving and preservation of the music and recorded sound heritage of the Americas through Preservation Implementation grants of up to $20,000, and Assistance grants of up to $5,000. The Scientific Research Projects category provides grants of up to $20,000 for research on the impact of music on the human condition. Examples include the study of the effects of music on mood, cognition, and healing, as well as the medical and occupational well-being of music professionals and the creative process underlying music. The letter of inquiry deadline is October 1, 2017. Visit the GRAMMY Museum website to learn more about the funding guidelines and application process.

Environmental Educator Summer Programs Supported

Cedar Tree Foundation: Environmental Education Teacher Professional Development Program

The Cedar Tree Foundation is seeking to communicate the facts and urgency of environmental issues taught in schools in the United States by supporting nonprofit organizations that offer summer professional development opportunities for current K-12 teachers in public, private, or alternative schools. The Foundation's Environmental Education Teacher Professional Development Program provides grants for programs that allow teachers to have an engaging hands-on environmental education experience with a cohort of other teachers, and include networking and follow-up activities that support teachers in building their skills and bringing innovative environmental stewardship education back to their classrooms in the fall. Compelling opportunities for school administrators that translate into impact in the classroom or school community will also be considered. Grants will range from $20,000 to $100,000. The application deadline is September 30, 2017. Application guidelines are available on the Foundation's website.

Regional Funding

Funds for Western and Midwestern Native Arts Organizations

First Nations Development Institute: Native Arts Initiative

First Nations Development Institute (First Nations) supports the perpetuation and proliferation of Native American arts, cultures, and traditions as integral to Native community life. First Nations' Native Arts Initiative is planning to fund approximately 15 Native-controlled nonprofits and tribal government programs located in one of the following regions: Upper Midwest (Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin); Southwest (Arizona, New Mexico, and Southern California); and the Pacific Northwest (Oregon and Washington). Selected organizations will receive organizational and programmatic resources, including direct grants of $32,000 and technical assistance and training. To be eligible to apply, organizations must have existing program initiatives in place supporting Native artists and the field of traditional Native arts, as well as a demonstrated commitment to increasing the intergenerational transfer of knowledge of traditional Native artistic practices and perpetuation and proliferation of traditional Native arts. The application deadline is October 19, 2017. Visit the First Nations website to download the Request for Proposals and submit an online application.

Grants Address HIV/AIDS Issues and Social Justice in the South

AIDS United: Southern HIV Impact Fund

The Southern HIV Impact Fund, a new initiative of AIDS United, aims to address the disproportionate impact of HIV/AIDS in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas. The initiative will address the needs of individuals and communities affected by HIV in three primary areas: prevention; care and support; and policy, advocacy, and movement building. To maximize efforts and impact, the focus is explicitly on increasing cross-sectional work among traditionally HIV-focused organizations and those with little or no prior HIV experience, but with a history of working to advance social justice and/or civil rights. Organizations working in the intersecting fields of racial and social justice, gender equality and reproductive rights, LGBTQ, immigration, detention and mass incarceration, among others are well-positioned to positively impact the social determinants of health that have significant implications for people living with or at risk for HIV in the South. Organizations are eligible to apply for funding up to $100,000. The application deadline is September 29, 2017. Visit the AIDS United website to download the Request for Proposals.

Support for Services Aiding People Affected by Autism in Selected Regions

Doug Flutie, Jr. Foundation for Autism

The Doug Flutie, Jr. Foundation for Autism is dedicated to improving the quality of life for people and families affected by autism. The Foundation provides grants to nonprofit organizations in the New England states; New York; New Jersey; Southern California; Central Florida; and the cities of Calgary, Toronto, and Vancouver in Canada. (National education and advocacy programs are also considered for funding.) The priorities of the Foundation are to meet family's needs by ensuring access to services, an active lifestyle, and adult independence. Grants generally range from $10,000 to $20,000. The application deadline is September 29, 2017. The online application form is available on the Foundation's website.

K-12 STEM Programs in Company Communities Funded

FirstEnergy STEM Classroom Grants

FirstEnergy STEM Classroom Grants provide support to educators at pre-K-12 schools and youth groups in communities served by the company in Maryland, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. Grants of up to $1,000 are available for creative classroom projects in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. Resources requested should be integral components of a well-planned classroom project or lesson plan, and important to its success. Grants may be used to compensate experts who come to work with students, but not to pay teachers or staff. The application deadline is September 22, 2017. Visit the FirstEnergy website to download the application form.

Federal Funding

Program Supports Engagement With Historical Records

National Archives and Records Administration

The Public Engagement with Historical Records program supports projects that encourage public engagement with historical records, including the development of new tools that enable people to engage online. The application deadline is October 5, 2017.

Funds Available to Reduce Air Pollution

Environmental Protection Agency

The Targeted Air Shed Grant Program provides support to develop plans, conduct demonstrations, and implement projects to reduce air pollution in heavily polluted areas. The application deadline is October 18, 2017.

The Southern Law Poverty Center reports there are at least 1,503 symbols of the Confederacy in public spaces, and at least 109 public schools named for prominent Confederates. “There is nothing remotely comparable in the North to honor the winning side of the Civil War,” the Southern Law Poverty Center said. One proof of that: How many schools (or monuments) are standing for Ely Parker?

Parker, a Seneca, drafted the documents that spelled out the surrender to be signed by General Robert E. Lee on April 9, 1865. “I am glad to see one real American here,” Lee said while shaking his hand. Lt. Col. Parker responded: “We are all Americans.”

Parker had another concern at the time, compassion. He wrote: “Generals Grant and Lee talked over the surrender then Lee rose and said, “General Grant I want to ask you something. If our positions were reversed I would grant it to you. My men are starving and I would ask if you would give them rations.” Grant asked, “How many men have you got?” “About twenty thousand,” said General Lee. General Grant came over to me then and told me to make out an order for rations for thirty thousand. He knew – he did not propose to have anyone suffer.”

Then Parker represents the complexity of the Native American experience in America. He became an officer because he could not practice law because only white men were admitted to the bar. So he became an engineer, later a military officer and a general, and still later, the first American Indian to represent the United States as head the Bureau of Indian Affairs. In that post he took on corruption. And, basically lost. Congress held hearings, blamed him for every problem at the BIA, and took away much of his authority making him a figurehead. As historian James Ring Adams wrote in American Indian Magazine: “He was an architect of Grant’s ‘Peace Policy,’ which ended Red Cloud’s War by accepting all of the Oglala Lakota’s terms. But Parker ran afoul of philanthropists who wanted to control Indian policy through their domination of the Board of Indian Commissioners. His enemies provoked a wearing Congressional hearing into his work. Even though he was exonerated of any criminality, Parker resigned in 1871. In later years, he expressed hurt that Grant had not supported him.”

Of course the BIA is an agency that Donald Trump still hasn’t picked anyone to lead. Then, why should anyone take that job now? This presidency is over.

Toni Burton

I was lucky enough to meet the Danish geneticist who helped our tribe come to the final conclusion. At his presentation, I learned that 3 of the oldest remains to be found in the US have all been found to be native to this land and their DNA has not been found to have originated from any other land. Not from Asia or Africa as other scientists have claimed in the past. This was proven by genetic research, not facial recognition or by any other means. These findings also match up to our native teachings and further prove that the natives are indigenous to this land. Maybe it is time to "rewrite history." I am beyond thankful to have been able to see this story come to a successful ending.
