News from the Roundhouse

The Roundhouse is proud to welcome a brand new contributing editor to News from Native California magazine--Mr. Stanley Rodriguez, tribal legislator from the Lipay Nation of Santa Ysabel! Stan is a cultural teacher at Kumeyaay Community College, a board member with the Advocates for Indigenous California Language Survival, a U.S. Navy veteran, and all-round wonderful guy. We are honored to have his guidance in moving the magazine forward.

Production of the Fall 2017 issue of News from Native California has begun and we are very excited about what will be featured! Highlights from the 2017 California Indian Basketweavers Association Gathering, Luiseño poetry, and a cautionary message about foraging native plants are just some of what is being shared. Order your subscription here.

Also, if you haven't picked up a copy of the Summer 2017 "Greater than Gold: Stories of Resilience" issue of News, you can still get it. Order your copy here.

Finally, we would like to send a very special thank you to the Maidu Museum & Historic Site for hosting a retrospective exhibit highlighting 30 years of cover art from News from Native California. It's always a pleasure to work with you!

NY Times: A Conversation With Native Americans on Race

Great video from The New York Times's Emmy-award-winning and Oscar-nominated short documentary series!

In this series which explores the "Conversation on Race", filmmakers speak with Native Americans about identity, blood quantum and other issues.

Message from the filmmakers:

"Despite the broad spectrum of indigenous identities who participated in our conversation, they shared the experience of living away from their respective reservations and communities.

We hope that this piece helps inspire more online and offline conversations that include an even wider range of Native voices living in, around and beyond reservation communities." READ MORE

Here's a little bit about the pow wow in Danielle's own words:

It was in 1961 that band member Rosemary Odjig raised the tradition of the "pow wow" in her hometown of Wikwemikong after witnessing a pow wow in another community and realizing the importance of practicing and remembering the teachings of her community's ancestors. What started as the "Wikwemikong Indian Days" gathering almost 60 years ago is now known as the "Wikwemikong Annual Cultural Festival" and is revered as one of the largest and longest-running pow wows in North America... ## Did You Catch Tina Fey's Standing Rock Shoutout on SNL?

Saturday Night Live, not one to shy away from politics and current events, brought in Tina Fey to talk about Charlottesville, Virginia on their popular Weekend Update segment.

Tina Fey's segment starts at 0:40 in. About 3:00 in is when she starts talking about Natives and Standing Rock!

"It's not our country. We stole it. We stole it from the Native Americans, and when they have a peaceful protest at Standing Rock we shoot at them with rubber bullets, but we let you chinless turds march the streets with semi-automatic weapons."

And it's not the first time people have talked about the hypocrisy of peaceful protesters at Standing Rock versus what happened at Charlottesville.

TRADITIONAL MI'KMAQ 1st & 7th
DISTRICT CHIEFS OPPOSE JUNEX PROJECTS

Today, we traditional council chiefs from the 1st and the 7th Districts of Miâkmaq have gathered at the Junexit Banquet organized by the Camp by the River. We are here not only to support the occupation that has been set upon August 7th against Junex but also to assert our inherent rights and title over our unceded and unsurrendered territory, as affirmed by the 1763 Royal Proclamation. We assert our presence here to protect our territory under the Protection clauses for unceded lands, as protected by Constitutional Rights, Charter Rights, Human Rights, and International Rights.

The Chief of Miâkmaq 1st District, Unamaki, which is currently involved in its own struggle against oil and gas exploration by Alton Gas, as well as the 2011 historic and victorious struggle against fracking in Elsipogtog (6th District), thus adds her support to the 7th District's current opposition to exploration and extraction on its land by Junex.

After the dismantling of the blockade, the struggle is just beginning, and coalitions are being formed between Miâkmaq District Chiefs from the northern and southern ends of our Nation, as well as with land and water protectors from other nations.

As Traditional Mikmaq council Chiefs, we affirm our complete and inviolable sovereignty over the land Junex is illegally attempting to destroy. We are not concerned by the Indian Act (INAC) leadership, whose authority lies exclusively within the border of the Federal Indian Reserves as stated in the Chapter 91.24 of the Constitution of Canada (Indians and land reserved for Indians). INAC describes only boundaries of reservations, and not traditional hunting and fishing territories. Outside of Federal Indian Reserves, the authority and jurisdiction lies with the rights holders, i.e. traditional district chiefs.

We demand an immediate moratorium on all exploration and/or development of oil and/or gas on traditional mikmaq territory, District 7.

As Miâ[A]kmaq peoples, we have a duty and obligation to defend and protect our Ancestral District territory. We cannot remain silent and condone any oil drilling within our territory that will poison our lands, waters, fauna and wildlife. We call all groups and individuals concerned by the protection of water and land on Gespegawagi territory to voice their support, take action, and join the struggle on site.

*Indigenous Junex fracking blockader court decision Friday in Gaspé, Quebec*

OTTAWA, AUGUST 18 - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

This morning, 10:30am Atlantic time, Anishinaabe water protector and Ottawa resident Fredrick Stoneypoint will receive the decision of judge Denis Paradis' on whether he will get bail release for the severe charges he is facing.

Stoneypoint has been in custody since August 14 when Quebec provincial police ('SQ') took down an over-a-week-long blockade that was preventing oil/gas company Junex from proceeding on its exploratory fracking activities in the Gaspésie, eastern Quebec.

The blockade was done completely anonymously up until Stoneypoint's arrest, and he has not divulged names of any of his comrades in the blockade while in custody.

A non-blockade camp against the fracking is still in operation nearby with group Environment Vert Plus.

There has been very little English media coverage of the grassroots and Indigenous opposition to Junex's activities.

Stoneypoint is a Carleton University student, member of Sagamok Anishinawbek First Nation, and was one of the organizers of the Reoccupation of Parliament Hill earlier this summer that 'Unsettled' the Canada Day 150 patriot celebrations.

STATEMENT FROM FREDDY STONEYPPOINT

AUGUST 17 as RELEASED TO HIS LAWYERS A.RIAHI AND R.DESVIGNES:

"As a representative of Bawating water protectors, my only wish is to activate my ceremonial being in defense of land and waters through peaceful means. I am not an activist, I am an Anishinaabe man working to protect the land for future generations. I thank all of my supporters working towards same future for all on Turtle Island. Tomorrow at 10h30 AM, I will receive decision on my bail hearing"

Ed Ruscha and JoAnne Northrup on Unsettled: Stories from the Edge

Join the Unsettled curators as they explore the connections among the diverse cultures and artistic practices of the Greater West. Sept 23 / 11 AM - 12 PM

Reminder: Think you know the West? Think again.

Shifting Ground. Colliding Cultures. Colonizing Resources. The Sublime Open. Experimental Diversity. Traverse time and space across the Greater West.

Spanning 2,000 years, Unsettled amasses 200 artworks by 80 artists living and/or working in a super-region we call the Greater West. This geographic area stretches from Alaska to Patagonia, and from Australia to the American West. Though ranging across thousands of miles, this region shares many similarities: vast expanses of open land, rich natural resources, diverse indigenous peoples, colonialism, and the ongoing conflicts that inevitably arise when these factors coexist.

Organized by JoAnne Northrup, Nevada Museum of Art Curatorial Director and Curator of Contemporary Art; in collaboration with artist Ed Ruscha, Unsettled makes connections among the diverse cultures and artistic practices of this super-region. The show will travel to both the Anchorage Museum and Palm Springs Art Museum. Engage: #UnsettledFrontier @nevadaart
