UNR Cooperative Extension Schedules Free Gardening Classes Carla O'Day.

It may not be time to get out the shovel, but it's time to talk gardening.

The University of Nevada Cooperative Extension has scheduled free weekly classes that start Tuesday and cover a variety of topics that range from weed and pest control to yielding bountiful crops.

Classes are from 6 to 8 p.m. at Bartley Ranch Regional Park, 6000 Bartley Ranch Road.

- Feb. 13: How to combine plant characteristics and one's needs to get the best fit will be covered by Rod Haulenbeek, certified arborist and cooperative extension master gardener volunteer.
- Feb. 20: Identifying and controlling weeds will be addressed, along with the differences between noxious and nuisance weeds.
- Feb. 27: Basic safety measures, along with the best ways to make gardening less painful, will be discussed.
- March 6: The basics of fruit tree pruning and how to maximize production will be covered, as well as training fruit trees to grow on trellises and against flat surfaces.
- March 13: Cooperative extension master gardener volunteer Pamela Van Hoozer will explain how to select varieties of tomatoes to plant in different types of gardens.
- March 20: Herb gardening and how to grow them in landscapes and containers will be addressed.
- March 27: Successful vegetable gardening, including information on how to produce abundant crops, tips on improving soil, crop rotation, companion planting and using raised beds will be provided.

For more information on the classes, call 775-784-4848, email mastergardeners@unce.unr.edu, or visit www.unce.unr.edu.

Interior secretary promotes plan to improve big-game habitat

SALT LAKE CITY -- U.S. Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke said Friday that he's taking steps to study and preserve habitat and migration corridors in Western states for big-game animals such as elk, mule and deer, a move that hunters and some experts applauded but that critics called an effort to cover up damage.

Navajo Nation's first Horse Therapy Center for Veterans

Started by Shirleen Jumbo-Rintila and Becky Flowers, SJ-R Equine Ranch LLC promises to be more than just a place for Horses. SJ-R Equine Ranch will be the first Navajo Equine Farm and Garden therapy ranch for Navajo Veterans and their families, further hoping to extend their services to victims of domestic abuse and eventually those who struggle with Autism.

With their current sights currently set on therapy for Veterans, SJ-R Equine Ranch offers therapies for those who suffer from PTSD, Traumatic Brain Injury, and will promote health and coping techniques in the first ever center within 4 hours too much of the Navajo Nation veterans as well as it's bordering towns. Tamara Pearson, Truthout: Maria de Jesús Patricio Martínez (Marichuy), Mexico's first female, Indigenous presidential hopeful, has barely been able to get her campaign off the ground. Ignored by the media, snubbed by businesses, discriminated against by banks, and faced with a barrage of technical hurdles, such as lack of access to high-speed internet and smart phones, Marichuy and her volunteers are, nevertheless, determined to get organized.

On December 21, 2018, we provided you with a revised version of the December 18 paper on potential options for reconstituting or replacing the Licensing Support Network (LSN). That version included information regarding the potential submission of additional documentary material and evidentiary hearing exhibits that was provided by the State of Nevada, but which we were unable to include in the initial paper. Subsequently, Inyo County, Nevada, provided estimated documentary material and evidentiary hearing sizing information. The attached revision to the December 21 version of the options paper incorporates this Inyo County information (at pp. 4–5), as well as provides an update to the standardization risk factor text description for impact and likelihood in Table 8.5 of the paper (at p. 35) that correctly matches the numeric score.

My Favorite Teacher Contest

Who Can Participate: Middle and High School Students.

Here's How It Works: Students write an essay, poem, or thank-you letter (500 words or less, in English on 8.5" x 11" white paper) sharing how a teacher has influenced their life and why they appreciate and admire them. Each entry should be submitted with the entry form and a parent or legal guardian must sign the entry form acknowledging that they have read the Official Contest Rules.

Each year, participating schools will collect the essays starting in early January and provide them to their local Barnes & Noble store representative by March 2.

If your school is not participating in the contest and you would like your teacher to be considered for the local and regional award as well as the national Barnes & Noble Teacher of the Year Award, please submit your signed entry form in person or by mail to your local store. Forms must be postmarked by March 2, and can be sent to any Barnes & Noble store near you. (A complete list of stores is available here). A store representative will ensure it is entered into the pool of entries for the awards.

What Students Get: The students who author the winning essays, poems, or thank-you letters will receive a certificate of recognition and be honored at their local store during a ceremony for the winning teachers from their schools.

In addition, the Student who authors the winning essay, poem, or thank-you letter for the teacher that wins the "Barnes & Noble National Teacher of the Year" will also receive a $500 Barnes & Noble gift certificate and NOOK device.

What Teachers Get: The winning teachers will be recognized at a special event at their local Barnes & Noble store and will receive a special award acknowledging their achievement as well as additional
