Journal #4255 from sdc 10.1.18

Congress Gives Sacred Apache Land to Foreign Mining Company Seeking America's Quietest Spots: The Quest for Silence in a Loud World Norway Becomes World's First Country to Ban Deforestation Electronic Records Day

Latin American Countries Sign Landmark Treaty to Protect Environmental Defenders 'Mosquito-pocalypse is in full effect': North Carolina hit by blood-sucking pest outbreak Orca 'Apocalypse': Half of Killer Whales Doomed to Die From Pollution Digital Public Library of America - Plains to Peak Collection (1737 units) November PowWows

A week's end review of the top stories in Indian Country Today as picked by our readers

whitewolfpack.com Congress Gives Sacred Apache Land to Foreign Mining Company

Seeking America's Quietest Spots: The Quest for Silence in a Loud World By JESS BIDGOOD

Dennis Follensbee has climbed through New Hampshire's White Mountains trying to find somewhere — anywhere — that is quiet. He is not alone in his quest.

Norway Becomes World's First Country to Ban Deforestation

Katie Pohlman, EcoWatch

Pohlman writes: "Norway has become the first country to ban deforestation. The Norwegian Parliament pledged May 26 that the government's public procurement policy will be deforestation-free." READ MORE

Electronic Records Day

10/10/2018

The Council of State Archivists' annual Electronic Records Day raises awareness about the crucial need to manage and preserve government electronic records. Electronic Records Day is part of CoSA's State Electronic Records Initiative (SERI).

CoSA Electronic Records Day materials are now available, including:

New for 2018

- Electronic Government Records Overview (PDF)
- Electronic Government Records Tips (PDF)

Updated for 2018

- 10 Reasons for E-Records (Word) (PDF)
- Electronic Records Emergency Planning and Response (Word) (PDF)
- Why You Need More Than Backups to Preserve Records (Word) (PDF)
- Top Tips for Government Agencies Working with Electronic Records (Word) (PDF)
- Personal E-Records Tips (Word) (PDF)
- Managing E-Communications in Government (Word) (PDF)

Electronic Records Day logos are also available:

- 2018 Electronic Records Day Logo w/CoSA tag line (JPG) (PDF)
- 2018 Electronic Records Day Logo no tag line (JPG) (PDF)

Also:

• A National Risk: The State of State Electronic Records Report, 2017 and infographic

Spread the word on social media using the #ERecsDay hashtag. Do a topical blog post or newsletter. Give a presentation on digital records. Host a workshop on electronic records or digital preservation. Make a video about electronic records.

Follow #ERecsDay on Twitter or Facebook

Twitter - @StateArchivists

Facebook - www.facebook.com/CouncilOfStateArchivists

Questions? Contact Us!

Nevada may have to give up its "state bird"!

'Mosquito-pocalypse is in full effect': North Carolina hit by blood-sucking pest outbreak Dalvin Brown

Cassie Vadovsky returned home after picking up her 4-year-old daughter from school Tuesday evening and was greeted by a swarm of blood-thirsty mosquitos.

Not just any mosquitos. Aggressive, monstrous pests with stripes on their legs.

"It was like a flurry — like it was snowing mosquitos," the stay-at-home mother of two said. "I think my car agitated them. I waited for them to calm down before I grabbed the kids and the ran into the house."

Vadovsky is just one of the many people in North Carolina who is fighting against a monster mosquito outbreak, the result of flooding caused by Hurricane Florence.

"It didn't hit automatically. It was more gradual. It took maybe 3 or 4 days after the storm passed before it got to this epidemic level." Vadovsky said. "And I'm not even on the side of town that had the major flooding. Imagine how bad it could be over on that end."

Mosquito experts say that floodwaters can cause eggs that would have otherwise laid dormant for over a year to hatch – sending billions of the vicious parasites into the air.

The ones plaguing the Carolinas are called "Gallinippers," or "Psorophora ciliata," according to entomologist Michael Waldvogel of North Carolina State University (NCSU). This species that can be three times as large as average mosquitoes and the larvae are known to prey on aquatic animals that are as large as tadpoles. The females grow up to feed on large mammals, humans included.

"There's 61 species of mosquitoes in North Carolina and of those, probably 15 to 20 would be highly responsive to floodwaters in this way," said Michael Reiskind, Associate Professor of the Department of Entomology and Plant Pathology at NCSU. "When you have major flooding, a lot of these eggs hatch and you can see rapid population growth."

Just how much growth?

Reiskind surveyed an area in Raleigh, the state's capital, around the time of Hurricane Florence to monitor mosquito populations.

"Before the storm, I went out for 5-minutes and counted just three mosquitos in that time. A week after the storm, in those 5-minutes I had eight of them. Then after two weeks, (I counted) 50 in that time, and our area didn't get hit the hardest," Reiskind said.

Vadovsky posted a video on Facebook of the swarm around her home, generating over 76,000 views and counting. In the video, her daughter can be heard asking, "Why are you doing that – taking pictures of the wasps?" To which Vadovsky responds, "They're not wasps. They're mosquitoes."

1/105 SLIDES © Sean Rayford/Getty Images

Hurricane Florence made landfall in North Carolina on Sept. 14, bringing punishing winds and rain to the East Coast of the United States. Thousands of coastal residents remained on edge as they were told that they may need to leave their homes because rivers are still rising more than a week after Hurricane Florence slammed into the Carolinas.

Slideshow by photo services

"O my word. Lord help us. Those boogers are gonna eat us alive," comments North Carolinian Pennie Thomas. "They bit me through my shoe over here in Fayetteville. Took my son's home early from football practice cuz the field was covered in em," comments Tristan Ortiz.

Reiskind, an entomologist, said that larger species could bite through one or two layers of cotton "pretty easily."

Vadovsky said that the bloodsuckers rest on the windows outside her family's home in large numbers, waiting to attack. When she or a relative goes outside the mosquitoes swarm. "They're more than just pesky," she said.

"A female mosquito just wants to make eggs, and there's just one way of doing that, by taking blood," Reiskind said.

So what's the good news?

Most mosquito species don't do well once the weather gets cold so the experts suspect this current plague will die down in the coming weeks.

Until then, Reiskind suggests that people in areas ravaged by the storm wear long sleeves and spray insecticides.

In the wake of the mosquito outbreak, North Carolina Governor Roy Cooper ordered $4 million in control efforts to help counties hit by Hurricane Florence.

"FEMA provides reimbursement for local agencies to spray for mosquitos. So, it is possible for a county health department to do aerial spraying but not every county does it," Reiskind said.

If your area doesn't spray, experts said Mosquito Dunks, donut-shaped products that attack mosquitoes in their developmental stages, can help stop the spread of mosquitoes. They can be found at local hardware stores.

"These small disks of freeze-dried bacteria dissipate in water and inhibit the reproductive cycle of mosquitos. It's not an insecticide. It's a more natural solution that really works," said Rachel Noble, a professor at the UNC Institute of Marine Sciences.

Though mosquitoes are known to carry diseases like Zika and Malaria, Noble said that North Carolinians have the upper hand since those illnesses tend to occur in areas with denser populations. She did warn though, that the mosquito species that inhabit the Carolinas are capable of carrying West Nile and encephalitis.

"People shouldn't worry too much, a big mosquito is no more dangerous than a little one," said Reiskind. "They aren't radioactive or genetically modified or some exotic species, this is just what happens after a hurricane hits."

Latin American Countries Sign Landmark Treaty to Protect Environmental

DefendersYessenia Funes, EartherFunes writes: "Latin America and the Caribbean finally have a treaty to help protect defenders of the environment."READ MORE

Orca 'Apocalypse': Half of Killer Whales Doomed to Die From Pollution

Damian Carrington, Guardian UK Carrington writes: "At least half of the world's killer whale populations are doomed to extinction due to toxic and persistent pollution of the oceans, according to a major new study." READ MORE Digital Public Library of America - Plains to Peak Collection (1737 units) https://dp.la/search?q=indian&partner=%22Plains%20to%20Peaks%20Collective%22&page=1

Michael Bateese -- Kul-Kun-un-cha (Red Belt) Matalin -- U-lu-em- ce-ce (Iron Moose)

Boos, Edward H Michael Bateese (also known as "Kul-Kun-um-cha" and "Red Belt") and Matalin (also known as "U-lu-em-ce-ce," "Ululmcu," and "Iron Moose") pose in front of a patterned blanket on the Flathead Indian Res... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Antonio Romero & family
Lytle), 1868-1935Beam, George L. (George
Portrait of a NativeAmerican (Taos Pueblo) family: a man identified as Antonio
Romero (wearing beaded moccasins), his wife and children, a boy and a girl.View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Evaluating Approaches to Nutrition Education and Wellness of Acjachemen TribalMembers in Orange CountyHernandez, Juliana Victoria

Obesity is a prevalent health risk among American Indian populations in the Southwest. The purpose of this research is to identify educational and culturally appropriate methods to lowering the rate o... View Full Item in Colorado College

Hopi Poley, H. S. (Horace Swartley)

Native American (Hopi) kachina dancers with face masks, feathers, kilts, and pelts. One beats a large drum. Shows pueblo multi-story structure with steps, ladders, windows, and doors and some spectato... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

The Katchina dance to the rain gods, Hopi Indians at Shonghopavi, Arizona

Underwood & Underwood Native American Hopi men dressed as Kachinas dance in body paint, embroidered kilts with fox skins hanging from their belts, and masks in Shongopavi, Second Mesa, Arizona. They carry rattles made from... View Full Item in Denver Public

Sun Dance at Pine Ridge, South Dakota Eight Native American (Oglala Sioux) men participate in the Sun Dance on the Pine Ridge Reservation, South Dakota. They all wear decorative, but different, breechcloths and head wear, and all hold cer...View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Snake dance Poley, H. S. (Horace Swartley) Spectators watch Native American (Hopi) snake dancers at Walpi Pueblo, Arizona. Dancers wear body paint, roaches, necklaces, woven kilts, buckskin boots, and feathers. View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Sioux Delegation Group portrait of the Native American (Sioux) delegation that traveled to Washington D. C. to negotiate Indian rights. Identification on back reads: "TOP ROW, 1. Zaphier, 2. Hump, 3. High Pipe, 4. Fas... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Camp Weld Council, Denver Group portrait of the Camp Weld Council, Denver Colorado shows white and Native American (Arapaho and Cheyenne) men arranged in three rows. Identification: Left to right, kneeling: Maj. Edward Wynkoop...View Full Item in Denver

Thayer's map of Colorado (1882) published by H.L. Thayer Scale 1:950,400. Prime meridians: Washington and Greenwich. "From surveys of the General Land Office, used by permission, revised & corrected to date by the Publisher." On cover: Thayer's Map of Color... View Full Item in History Colorado

Nebraska and Kanzas Shows New Mexico extending north; the eastern borders of Utah, Oregon, and Washington state and the western borders of "Kanzas" and Nebraska meeting at the Continental Divide, and Minnesota's western...View Full Item in History Colorado

untitled Duran, Ramos Picuris Pueblo, New Mexico. Tune from a musical dance drama played on violin by Ramos Duran. Joseph Rael gives an historical account of the dance and the way Hispano and Indian versions are presented...View Full Item in Colorado College

An Indian Chronicle & A Sketch on the Life of Shavano Una Hogue's biographical sketches of the Ute tribe, and Ouray, Chipeta, and Shavano, in particular. This statement is part of the Thomas A. Nevens Papers. View Full Item in Salida Regional Library (Salida, Colo.)

TPR at a glance : a guide to the transportation planning regionsThis resource isintended to provide information regarding Colorado's 15 Transportation Planning Regions(TPRs) and two Indian Tribes. As a whole, one can see how TPRs relate geographically and canco...View Full Item in Colorado State Publications Library

The Indian Rocks David Bedell is interviewed by daughter, Toni Bedell, about the collection of pre-historic petroglyphs on his property. View Full Item in Bud Werner Memorial Library

Wind River Reservation, WyomingSchutz, Willard DView Full Item in University of Wyoming

William S. Hart and Chief Luther Standing Bear, DakotaBarry, D. F. (David Francis),1854-1934a letter to the Western History Department dated May 24, 1968, lettercontinues that Chief Luther Standing Bear wrote four books titled: My people, the Sioux (1928),My Indian boyhood (1931), Land of...View Full Item in Denver Public Library

At grave of Quanah Native American Comanche pose at Quanah Parker's memorial inside a fence decorated with a wreath, Post Oak Mission Cemetery, near Cache, Oklahoma. They include: "from left to right: Tuas-ye-ah, Quanna... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Morning roll call Bailey, Dix & Mead View of Native American Sioux families outside their tepees in their camp in a grove of box elders, near Fort Randall and the

Missouri River, Dakota Territory. Shows two white women and one of the com...View Full Item in Denver Public Library View of two teams of Native American Lakota Sioux women in a tug-of-war contest, Crow Creek Reservation, South Dakota, includes a policeman with a billy club and spectators.View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Albert Attock-nie, celebrated Comanche interpreter Seated portrait of Albert Attocknie, a Native American Comanche interpreter, holding a feather fan and wearing animal fur over his braids, feathers in his hair, and a buckskin shirt with a neck scarf. View Full Item in Denver

A. I. M. - State Supreme Court hearing re. discrimination in bar exams Two Native American men, members of the American Indian Movement (AIM), stand before the Justices of the Colorado State Supreme Court to argue against perceived discrimination toward Native Americans... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Lowry Pueblo, a twelfth-century religious pueblo near Hovenweep National MonumentKoch, Don, 1942View of Lowry Pueblo Ruins, a North American Indian (AncestralPuebloan) archaeological site in Canyons of the Ancients National Monument in westernColorado. Shows ruins that consist of a masonry and... View Full Item in Denver Public

Girls guard Wounded Knee trading post Native American (Sioux) women stand near the doorway of the Wounded Knee Trading Post during the 1973 AIM occupation of Wounded Knee, South Dakota. One woman holds a broom, the other holds a cigarette...View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Ska-Leete-Hill-E-Me-Kuhm (?), the oldest known Indian (105 years) and still takes a prominent part in all festivalsStone, BenjaminStudio portrait of a NativeAmerican Flathead (Salish) man, identified as Skaleetehillemekuhm (?). Described as the oldest known Flathead (105 years old), and still active in festivals, he wears a loo... View Full Item in Denver Public Library

Contributors

- Denver Public Library 1,348
- Colorado College 207
- History Colorado 128
- American Heritage Center 31
- Fort Lewis College 10
- Eagle Valley Library District 6
- Salida Regional Library (Salida, Colo.) 3
- Colorado State Publications Library 2
- Bud Werner Memorial Library 1
- University of Wyoming 1

November PowWows

November 2 - 3 Natchitoches Tribe of Louisiana Inaugural Pow Wow (2018)Natchitoches, LAFind More Information »

November 2 - 4 Three Sisters Native American Festival (2018) Panama City Beach, FLIRONWOMAN Jingle Dance Special Demonstrators-Living History Encampment, Long Bow & Blow Gun with Archery & Blow Gun Competition, Finger Weaving, Basket Making, Gourd Carving, Raptors, Gulf... Find More Information »

November 3 27th Annual Austin Pow Wow & American Indian Heritage Festival (2018) Austin, TX

Heritage Stage – Gourd Dance – Grand Entry – MC – Al Santos Arena Director – Cody Blassingame Head Judge – Josh Smith Head Man Dancer – Donovan Abbey Head Lady Dancer... Find More Information »

November 3 - 4 32nd Annual Red Mountain Eagle Pow-Wow (2018) Scottsdale, AZ Find More Information »

November 3 - 4History Revisited PowWow (2018)Huntsville, ALFind More Information »

 November 7 - 11
 27th Annual Great American Indian Exposition Pow-Wow and Show

 Richmond, VA
 . Contests Exhibitions/Contests Specials Exhibitions/Contests

 Find More Information »
 .

November 9 - 1110th Annual Native Rhythms Festival 2018Melbourne, FLHours are: Friday 9 to 10, Saturday 9 to 10, and Sunday 9 to 5 Visit our Website for more information! www.nativerhythmsfestival.comFind More Information >>

November 10 - 1117th Annual Veterans Appreciation and Heritage Pow Wow (2018)South Gate, CAFind More Information »

November 10 - 1129th Annual Native American Championship Pow Wow (2018)Houston, TXGolden Age Men & Ladies Ladies Cloth, Buckskin, Fancy Shawl andJingle Dress Men's Straight, Traditional, Grass and FancyFind More Information >>

November 10 - 11 Spirit of the Veteran and Warrior Intertribal Native American Festival Dayton, TN Intertribal Native American Festival City Point Park Hwy 27, Dayton, TN Sunday, , to Admission $5, children under 10 FREE Our veterans, police, firefighters, EMTs, and teachers FREE with ID! Head Lady:... Find More Information »

November 10 20th Annual Honoring the Veterans Pow Wow (2018) Mashantucket, CT Find More Information »

November 16 - 18 20th Annual Pahrump Inter-Tribal Social Powwow (2018) Pahrump, NV Find More Information »

November 172nd Annual Los Angeles Pow-Wow (2018)Los Angeles, CAHosted by: LA City/County Native American Indian Commission Invited Northern Drum – BearSprings Head Man – George Lone Elk Head Woman – Melinda Hale Host Gourd – Golden...Find More Information »

A week's end review of the top stories in Indian Country Today as picked by our readers Here are this past week's top 10 stories ending September 29, 2018.

Top 10

- 1. Social media erupts RCMP say dead Native woman found in ditch 'not suspicious'
- 2. Non-Native man guilty of strangling, sexualizing Native woman will serve no time
- 3. Native homeless woman's tragic death brings light to struggles in Minneapolis
- 4. Interior denies Mashpee trust land: 'You do not meet definition of an Indian'
- 5. 41-year-old man charged with murder, kidnapping of 10-yr-old Ashley Johnson-Barr
- 6. Indian Country E-Weekly Newsletter September 26, 2018
- 7. Top 10 Stories: What Indian Country read this past week as of Sep 22, 2018
- 8. Pine Ridge denied FEMA assistance after severe weather damage
- 9. Look who's laughing now; the 50 years of Diné College
- 10. The Indian Country Today weekly Video News Report by Vincent Schilling: 9-21-18

Top 10 Archives

- 1. Native American Student Proves Traditional Chokecherry Pudding Is Medicine
- 2. The True Story of Pocahontas: Historical Myths Versus Sad Reality

3. 10 Native Inventions and Innovations That Changed the World

4. Natural Pain Relief: 9 Alternatives to Ibuprofen, Acetaminophen or Aspirin

5. Two Spirits, One Heart, Five Genders

Follow Indian Country Today's associate editor and senior correspondent, Vincent Schilling, Akwesasne Mohawk, on Twitter - @VinceSchilling (And be sure to check out his weekly video report.)

Email - vschilling@indiancountrytoday.com

Follow Indian Country Today reporter and producer Jourdan Bennett-Begaye, Diné, on Twitter @jourdanbb.

Email: jbennett-begaye@indiancountrytoday.com

Mark Trahant is editor of Indian Country Today. He is a member of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes. Follow him on Twitter - @TrahantReports

Email: mtrahant@IndianCountryToday.com

"I'm just a human being trying to make it in a world that is very rapidly losing its understanding of being human."

John Trudell