Citizen Archivist Road Trip Update!

We are putting the pedal to the metal on our Citizen Archivist Road Trip! We've reached the halfway point on our Road Trip as we depart San Francisco today and head up to Seattle, Washington tomorrow. Since we began our virtual road trip, more than 3,000 pages of records have been enhanced from National Archives field offices across the country. That's amazing!

Thank you to all of our Citizen Archivists who have joined us so far, and there is still much more to come! Visit our Missions page tomorrow as we bring you records from the National Archives at Seattle, WA. You can help us tag and transcribe records from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Chinese Exclusion Act Files, genealogical records, and much more!

Get Started Tagging and Transcribing!

I invite you to explore Wild Classroom, WWF's educational resource library which provides free tools to help educators convey the importance of conservation to the next generation. Please share the exciting opportunity below with any educators in your life who would enjoy inspiring their students to make a difference.

WWF Wild Classroom, in collaboration with Scholastic, has created an SEL (social and emotional learning) in-class activity and fundraiser designed to empower students to take action for species around the world.

The engaging lesson and activity lead young learners to recognize their own survival needs and compare them to the needs of a species at risk. Upon discovering the similarities, students will be motivated to help protect these animals that are losing what they depend on to survive.

Check out the activity ►

Educators like you can pair this activity with the development of a Panda Nation fundraising page on behalf of their class, school, or community. Start your fundraiser by Earth Day, April 22, 2019, and be entered for a chance for your class to win a $500 collection of books from Scholastic!

See official rules for full entry and prize information.

WaterSMART Grants: Water and Energy Efficiency Grants for Fiscal Year 2019

Department of the Interior, Bureau of Reclamation

Applications due March 19, 2019

For more information, click here!

The Bureau of Reclamation is making funding available through its WaterSMART Program for water and energy efficiency grants for fiscal year 2019. These grants will be awarded to projects that will result in quantifiable and sustained water savings and support broader water reliability benefits. Approximately $24 million will be available through this funding opportunity.

Funding is provided in two groups. Funding Group I projects receive up to $300,000 and can be completed within two years. Funding Group II projects may receive up to $1.5 million for a phased project up to three years. Applicants must provide at least a 50 percent cost-share.

States, Tribes, irrigation districts, water districts and other organizations with water or power delivery authority located in the western United States or United States Territories are eligible to apply for this funding opportunity.

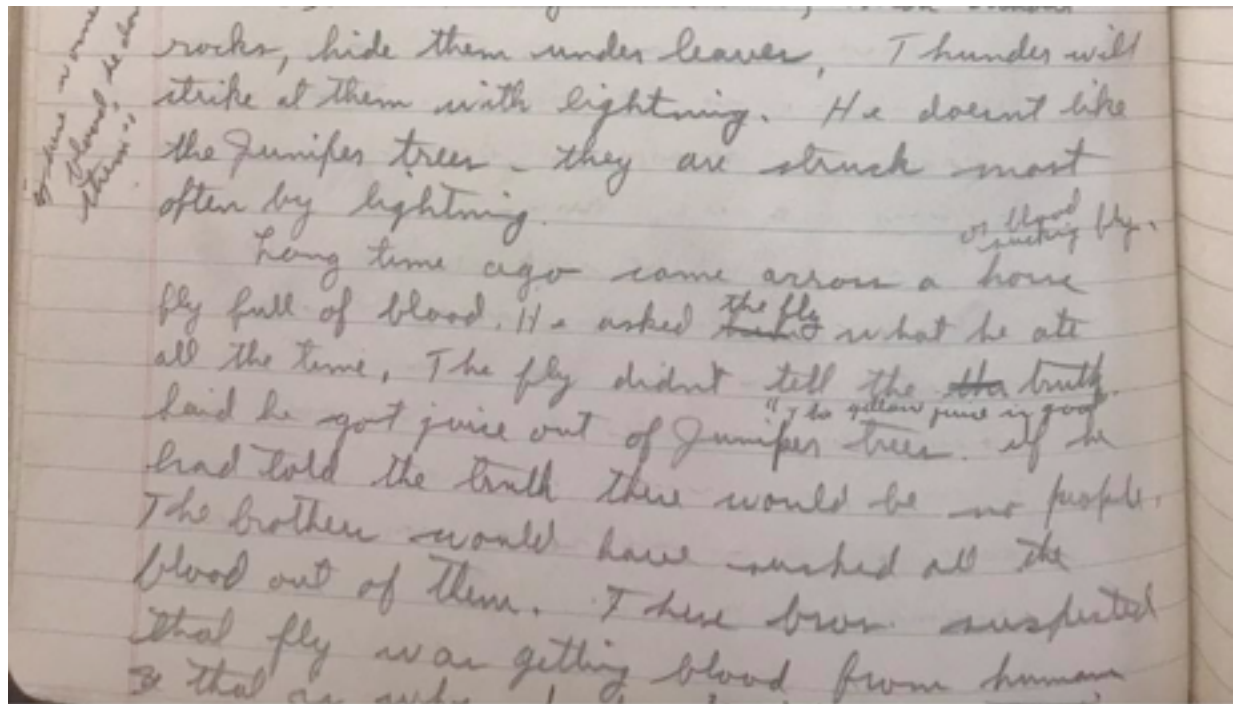

To learn more about WaterSMART or the Water and Energy Efficiency Grants, please visit www.usbr.gov/watersmart.

Quill work preceded bead work it was the decorative method of the days pre contact with white traders that brought glass beads from Czechoslovakia and Italy. The introduction of glass beads pretty much replaced quill work but not entirely. Quilling involves removing quills from a dead porcupine. Only certain quills are used from the animal not too thin not too thick. The animal is skinned the sk... See More

Pipe bag, Porcupine quills and brain tanned leather and horse hair. Made by Orvilla Long Fox-Assiniboine/Sioux . She learned to tan hides from her mother on the Fort Belknap Reservation near the little Rocky Mountains. Her mother taught her to gather wild foods like wild turnip, wild onions and chokecherry berries. They would make it town only twice a month. This is a very rare art form. I've never met anyone who has an unbroken path back to the art of quill embroidery.
