If These Bones Could Talk

We're taking a break for the holidays, so we bring you this favorite from earlier in the season, "If These Bones Could Talk." Explorer, scholar, and 19th-century darling Robert Kennicott seemed destined to lead a full and adventurous life. Then, at the age of 30 on an expedition to Russian Alaska in 1866, Kennicott was mysteriously discovered dead by a riverside. Rumors of all colors circulated about the cause of his death, although, it wasn't until 135 years later, in 2001, that two Smithsonian forensic scientists cracked the case.

To say Robert Kennicott left a lasting impression on the Smithsonian is an understatement. Search for his name in the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History collection records and you'll find his handprint everywhere from anthropology to mammals. Although Kennicott's research took place more than 100 years ago, his work still has an impact on contemporary science. The Smithsonian Institution Archives also has tons of photos, letters, and maps of his that have been digitized. Doesn't he look like a cross between Johnny Depp and Daniel Boone? ## Squaw Valley Ski Resort is now Palisades Tahoe.

The popular Tahoe-area resort unveiled its new name on Monday, a year after announcing its intention to rebrand because "squaw" is a derogatory term for Native American women. Washoe tribal members expressed hope that the change would also lead to the slur's removal from natural features, businesses, and streets. Moreover, said Helen Fillmore, a tribal member, "It would be nice if the tribe could get some land back." Outside magazine | SFGate.com

An Encyclopedic History

$65.00

Author: Michael Hittman

Format: Cloth/Pages: 512/ISBN: 9780874179095/Published Date: 2013

The Native American inhabitants of North America's Great Basin have a long, eventful history and rich cultures. Great Basin Indians: An Encyclopedic History covers all aspects of their world. The book is organized in an encyclopedic format to allow full discussion of many diverse topics, including geography, religion, significant individuals, the impact of Euro-American settlement, wars, tribes and intertribal relations, reservations, federal policies regarding Native Americans, scholarly theories regarding their prehistory, and others. Author Michael Hittman employs a vast range of archival and secondary sources as well as interviews, and he addresses the fruits of such recent methodologies as DNA analysis and gender studies that offer new insights into the lives and history of these enduring inhabitants of one of North America's most challenging environments.

Great Basin Indians is an essential resource for any reader interested in the Native peoples of the American West and in western history in general.

Author Bio

Michael Hittman is a professor of anthropology at Long Island University, specializing in Native American cultures. His other books include Wovoka and the Ghost Dance, Corbett Mack: The Life of a Northern Paiute, and Ghost Dances, Disillusionment, and Opiate Addiction: An Ethnohistory of Smith and Mason Valley Paiutes.

Webinar: Introduction to EPA Grants

In preparation for the American Rescue Plan's enhanced air monitoring competitive grant competition, EPA is hosting a general grants training for community organizations, tribes, and air agencies.

Date: Wednesday, September 29, 2021

Time: 2:00 – 3:30 PM EDT

Register here: <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/introduction-to-epa-grants-registration-168964434171>

This webinar will cover:

- Available EPA Grant Resources and Trainings
- Applying to Opportunities using Grants.gov
- Preparing Grant Applications
- The Competitive Grant Process
- Audience Questions & Answers

If you require special accommodations, please contact Corey Mocka at mocka.corey@epa.gov by September 24, 2021, to make any arrangements.

Please note that this webinar is not intended to cover the specific technical requirements of the upcoming grant competition; however, EPA expects to hold detailed information sessions later in Fall 2021.

To see a recording of the training online after the session and learn more about the air monitoring competitive grant competition here: <https://www.epa.gov/amtic/american-rescue-plan>.

Background:

On July 7, 2021 EPA announced that it will make $50 million in American Rescue Plan (ARP) funding available to improve ambient air quality monitoring for communities across the United States. The ARP provides a total of $100 million for the EPA to address health outcome disparities from pollution and the COVID-19 pandemic, with $50 million specifically to advance environmental justice, announced June 25th, and another $50 million for enhanced air quality monitoring.

Lecture | September 23 | 12-1 p.m. | Zoom Webinar

Speaker: Abigail De Kosnik, Associate Professor of Performance Studies, Faculty Director of Berkeley Center for New Media

Sponsor: Arts + Design

Free and open to the public; online only. Please register here.

New human expressions need to be archived in new ways. The way books were stored is not a good model for storing, for example, TV series or fan fiction. Join Abigail De Kosnik as she explains how new media create the need for archives, and how archives are creative works in their own right and form a foundation for collective action and social innovation.

Gail De Kosnik is an Associate Professor of Performance Studies at the UC Berkeley Department of Theater, Dance and Performance Studies as well as the Faculty Director of the Berkeley Center for New Media.

The poster is a vertical rectangle with a dark blue background featuring a faint, textured image of a mountain range. The text is white and arranged in a clear, hierarchical layout. At the top, the title 'Nevada Recovers' is in a large, bold, sans-serif font, followed by 'Listening Tour Event' in a slightly smaller bold font. Below this, the text 'With Nevada State Treasurer Zach Conine' is centered. A paragraph of text describes the purpose of the tour: 'The Nevada Recovers Listening Tour will seek input from tribal members throughout the state on priorities and ideas on how best to allocate the State's share of federal American Rescue Plan funds.' This is followed by 'When:' and 'Where:' sections with their respective details. At the bottom left, there is a line about finding more information online, the website 'NevadaRecovers.com', and a logo for 'NEVADA RECOVERS.COM' which includes a white outline of the state of Nevada. To the right of the logo, small text indicates the event is 'Powered By: Office of Governor Steve Sisolak' and 'Office of State Treasurer Zach Conine'.
