Plan Ahead Calendar

November 1-3 – NAHASDA Intermediate (virtual)

This interactive three (3) day online NAHASDA Intermediate training is the next step to a more comprehensive understanding of the Native American Housing Assistance and Self Determination Act of 1996 (NAHASDA). Participants will be equipped with valuable tools such as the latest regulations, program guidance, and PIH Notices to manage their programs successfully. Topics to be included, but not limited to; Overview of NAHASDA; Development and TCD; Operating Budgets; Useful Life; Leveraging and Management Capacity; and more. When: 8:30am – 3:30pm AKST

November 7-10 – Strategic Planning (virtual)

AAHA will host an online Strategic Planning Training to provide information and guidance under the Native American Housing and Self-Determination Act (NAHASDA) for housing authorities, tribal entities, and other individuals to understand Strategic Planning. Participants will learn the benefits of having a strategic plan, as well as learn strategies and insights that can be utilized to develop a short or long term plan to accomplish their goals. This virtual training will emphasize the development of a strategic plan that is appropriate and effective for the size and needs of the recipient's programs. Data development and analysis, recognizing critical issues and identifying goals and implementation will be included in the covered topics. When: 10:00am – 3:00pm AKST

Dec. 1-2: 2022 Center for Indian Country Research Development Virtual Summit

The Center for Indian Country Development (CICD) at the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis' CICD's annual research summit offers an open discussion of new insights and opportunities. The theme of this year's summit is Unlocking Our Full Economic Potential. The summit is intended for anyone who cares about better research that can help tribes achieve their economic and social objectives. Join tribal leaders, social science researchers, policymakers, and others as we learn about and discuss the latest research that can help tribal economies flourish. Even if you can't attend the entire event, we welcome your participation. Researchers will briefly present their findings in an accessible way, with tribal leaders and practitioners giving their reactions, followed by panel discussions. In addition, researchers will identify what policymakers can learn from the research evidence, and tribal leaders will explain what they'd like to know from future research. Register now .

HUD Training Webinars on the Environmental Review Process

(HUD) has created a series of training webinars on the environmental review process designed specifically for Tribes. These training webinars were created based on feedback provided during Tribal consultation on developing a coordinated environmental review. This training series is one of the deliverables in the Plan to Implement Coordinated Environmental Reviews, which was issued by an interagency workgroup in April 2022. Additional information on the environmental review process can be found at CodeTalk - Resources and Tools - HUD | HUD.gov / U.S..

Thanks to the work of frontline leaders and community members throughout Appalachia, the Mountain Valley Pipeline—a 303-mile fracked gas climate disaster—remains incomplete. But now, Senator Joe Manchin is trying to jam through a "side deal" in the Senate that could fast-track the pipeline and imperil these communities—and our livable future.

We just released a new blog with the top four reasons Senate Democrats must stand against the Mountain Valley Pipeline. Read up about all the dirty details now.

READ UP

This project is a textbook example of environmental injustice. The Mountain Valley Pipeline would treat Appalachia as a sacrifice zone, harming low-income, rural, and majority-elder communities and encroaching on sacred Indigenous sites.

It would also lock us into decades of new pollution, exacerbating the climate crisis and veering us further away from President Biden's climate goals.

That's just the tip of the iceberg. Read our blog to find out all the dirty details about the Mountain Valley Pipeline—and then get ready to fight for our frontline communities.
