While this file was too big to include here, it is very important for researchers who use maps. As time goes by, people forget (or remember the original and have no clue about the replacement) that a place name has been made.....one needs both (or all) names to be accurate in research. This may not be the most recent update. sdc

USGS Professional Paper 401, Lake Lahontan: Geology of Southern Carson Desert, one of the most significant contributions to the geological history of Nevada. These studies of Lake Lahontan were focused in the Lahontan Mountains near Grimes Point, Nevada, and many of the current place names of this area owe their origin to Morrison's field studies. The newly named "Morrison Peak" is located on the west flank of Sehoo Mountain, named by Morrison during his field studies, and overlooking many of the well-known Lake Lahontan geological features discovered by Morrison.

Dr. Morrison's work provided the basis for two recent Nevada Bureau of Mines and Geology publications:

Biden-Harris Administration Announces $550 Million to Advance Environmental Justice

Today, the Biden-Harris Administration announced the availability of $550 million from President Biden's Inflation Reduction Act to expedite investments through the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) new Environmental Justice Thriving Communities Grantmaking (EJ TCGM) program. This new, innovative program will fund up to 11 entities to serve as Grantmakers to community-based projects that reduce pollution. Selected Grantmakers will develop an efficient, simplified process so that organizations that historically have faced barriers to receiving funding can more seamlessly apply for grants that address environmental harms and risks.

The new program advances the Biden-Harris Administration's whole-of-government commitment to achieving environmental justice by building early, meaningful, and sustained partnerships with communities.

"Over the last two years I've traveled to overburdened and underserved communities and their message to me has been clear – residents have suffered far too long without access to crucial federal funding and resources," said EPA Administrator Michael S. Regan. "Thanks to President Biden's historic investments in America, including the largest ever investment in environmental justice, we're removing barriers and moving faster to deliver this unprecedented relief to the communities who need it most."

The entities eligible to apply under this Request for Applications (RFA) and serve as an Environmental Justice Thriving Communities Grantmaker fall into four categories. They include:

- A community-based nonprofit organization;
- A partnership of community-based nonprofit organizations;
- A partnership between a Tribal Nation and a community-based nonprofit organization; or,
- A partnership between an institution of higher education and a community-based nonprofit organization.

EPA intends to award up to 11 cooperative agreements under this RFA for up to approximately $50 million each to be funded incrementally over a 3-year period. The deadline to apply is May 31, 2023. EPA expects these Grantmakers to begin awarding subgrants to community-based organizations no later than early 2024.

The EJ TCGM program will further the goals of President Biden's Justice40 Initiative, which aims to deliver 40% of the overall benefits of certain Federal investments to disadvantaged communities that have been overburdened by pollution and historic underinvestment. EPA will continue to uphold the goals of the Justice40 Initiative by ensuring funds get to communities that have often been unable to access resources due to high barriers to entry.

New Resource Series for Tribal Communities and Organizations New to the CoC Program

The first set of resources from the Continuum of Care \(CoC\) Program Series for Tribal Communities and Organizations New to the CoC Program has been published. This series provides information for Tribes, Tribally Designated Housing Entities (TDHEs), and other organizations about the CoC Program, its purpose, eligible activities, and funding opportunities. Tribes and TDHEs are now eligible to participate in the CoC Program as a new opportunity to combat homelessness and housing instability in their communities. HUD is providing information and offering guidance about the CoC Program to support Tribes and TDHEs so they may decide whether to participate in the program now or in the future.

The CoC Program Series for Tribal Communities and Organizations New to the CoC Program offers multiple resources, including:

- CoC Program Participation Decision-Making Approach – Offers a way to organize questions and information so Tribal communities can compare their priorities with what the CoC Program offers
- CoC Program Recipient and CoC Roles – Provides an overview of an organization's responsibilities when participating in the CoC Program
- Connecting Tribal Community Activities and CoC Program Activities – Outlines eligible activities funded by the CoC Program
- Determining the Amount of Available CoC Program Funds – Explains CoC funding and the potential funding amount that may be available in the CoC Program
- CoC Program Participation Decision and Assessment (Coming Soon) – Poses a series of questions designed to end with decisions about whether to participate in the CoC Program and to what extent Tribal communities want to participate
- Continuing the CoC Program Paths (Coming Soon) – Describes the next steps a Tribe or THDE would take to determine if and how they intend to participate in the CoC Program

This series will assist in exploring whether to pursue CoC Program funding now or in the future to support efforts to prevent and end homelessness. These resources are not intended to assist with CoC Program registration. There will be additional resources in the series that focus on CoC project planning and implementation, as well as other aspects of the CoC Program. "The longer I live, the more deeply I learn that love — whether we call it friendship or family or romance — is the work of mirroring and magnifying each other's light. Gentle work. Steadfast work. Life-saving work in those moments when life and shame and sorrow occlude our own light from our view, but there is still a clear-eyed loving person to beam it back. In our best moments, we are that person for another."

James Baldwin
