Our Kanan Eagle  Graduating kinder

He learned so much this year. We started a year early because he’s so interested in what big brother is doing. But he’s kept up so well. He’s adding, reading, writing, and LOVES drawing/art.

I’ve absolutely loved our homeschool journey so far and am so eager to keep going and break that stigma.

We love you so much sweet boy.

Recognizing Doulas

Doulas are nonclinical birth workers trained to provide continuous physical, emotional, and informational support to clients before, during, and after labor and birth. The Women's Bureau conducted two listening sessions with doulas and doula servicing organizations to identify job quality gaps for doulas, specifically with respect to state-by-state variations in insurance reimbursement. This month, to mark International Doula Month, the Women's Bureau released an issue brief, summarizing the findings from those listening sessions. Deputy Director Gayle Goldin also participated in two webinars on the role of midwives and doulas in improving maternal health outcomes.

“Occupational segregation” is the gendered sorting of men and women into different types of jobs. It leads to women being overrepresented in certain jobs, which are valued and compensated less than male-dominated jobs.

We’ve heard from many working women about their experiences with gendered job expectations, the challenges they face at work, the support systems that help them thrive and the policy changes that would help them succeed. We’d like to hear from you.

Bear Knows

Any time the Bear wants to know anything, he will hit the ground (pound with his front paws), and ask, “Haga hayoo unnetumme (Who’s talking about me)?” Then, he knows.

When she was a little girl, they were in Lakeview (Oregon). At a place where all the Indians used to camp. She and another little girl (Teliven’s Aunt Nora) were there, and they were standing by the old lady (Maggie). She said, you know how little girls want to see everything. The old man, Lakeview John, was saddling his horse, and getting ready to go. The old lady said, “Hano meakwitu (where are you going)?” He said, “I’m going over and fight with the Bear (He was going to hunt deer, but he just said that).” He left.

As soon as he got into the timber, the Bear came after him. The Bear knew when the old man said, “I’m going to go and fight with the bear.” If it wasn’t for the stirrup, the Bear would’ve pulled him off of his horse.

He just turned around and came back. The old lady asked, “Why did you come back so early?” He said, “As soon as i got into the timber, the bear came after me.” The old lady asked him, “Well, why didn’t you fight with him...you wanted to fight.”

You may be pleasantly surprised by how much of the Library of Congress' collections are available online. When you perform a search (loc.gov/search/?loclr=blogsig), you can select "Available Online" under "Access Conditions" on the left hand side of the page to filter for materials you can access remotely. For more specific information about what you can access on certain topics, I'd encourage you to submit an inquiry to Ask a Librarian (ask.loc.gov/?loclr=blogsig), which will put you in touch with one of our reference librarians. Also, the digital collections team is regularly adding new materials to loc.gov, so you might be interested in following the "What's New on loc.gov" series on The Signal (blogs.loc.gov/thesignal/category/new-on-loc-gov/?loclr=blogsig) to stay up-to-date on what's recently been added to our online collections.

CARING FOR YARROW

WITH AMERICAN INDIAN CHILD RESOURCE CENTER (AICRC)

Caring for yarrow - social emotional - discuss the plant Yarrow (Achillea species). We will bring in several plants of yarrow, also known as "Warrior plant" and do a hands-on demo on how to re-pot the yarrow plant starts. We will discuss each part of the plant, growing tips, benefits of yarrow from an ecological perspective and also the medicinal benefits for our social, emotional and physical health. Yarrow is known as a medicine chest for its help in fighting infections, reducing fevers and cooling inflammation. Yarrow also teaches us about establishing healthy boundaries for self-care.

The American Indian Child Resource Center is a non-profit social services and educational community-based organization serving American Indian community members from across the greater Oakland/ San Francisco Bay Area and surrounding counties.

Carolyn Harry

I started crying saying goodbye to 4th graders earlier but honestly, the lump has been brewing all month. The first great granddaughter in our family is graduating tonight. Miss Kylie Renee Harry is and has always been such a spark. A spark of beauty, brilliance, smiles, love, talent, humor, and we are so proud of her. I know her Hoobes (Mom, Dad and Grandma Carm) are watching proudly with Kylie's Grandpa Gene. They never missed an event. Class of 2023! Way to go

Kylie Harry!! Congratulations on all of your accomplishments!
