$250,000 in grant funding now available for youth outdoor education

The Nevada Division of Outdoor Recreation (NDOR) is excited to announce that $250,000 in grant funding is now available for youth outdoor education and recreation projects in Nevada. Grants will be awarded to programs that connect Nevada students with nature, increase environmental literacy, foster stewardship of natural resources, and promote physical health through outdoor education and recreation. Eligible applicants include:

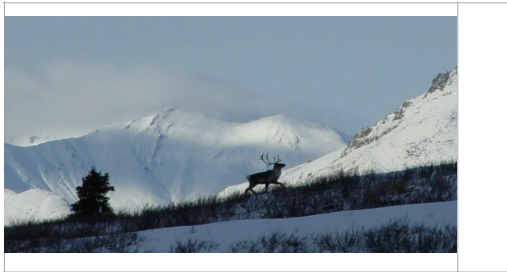

- Local, state, and tribal governments
- Schools
- Nonprofit organizations
- Community groups

Applications are due by October 6, 2023. You can submit your application online. Applications will be reviewed by NDOR Staff and/or the Advisory Board on Outdoor Recreation and awards will be announced beginning December 2023.

The Nevada Outdoor Education and Recreation (NOER) grant program was developed to provide high-quality outdoor education and recreation opportunities for Nevada students facing barriers to outdoor access.

“Thanks to the passage of Assembly Bill 128, we are finally able to introduce this first-of-its-kind program to Nevada students,” said NDOR Administrator Denise Beronio. “The NOER program lets kids directly experience the natural world, not just read about it in a textbook. We are thrilled to work with community partners to help our children develop their curiosity, personal responsibility, and connection to nature.”

Now End All the Drilling, Campaigners Say as Biden Rescinds Arctic Refuge Leases

"Our sacred land is only temporarily safe from oil and gas development," said one First Nations leader, urging Congress and the White House to "permanently protect the Arctic Refuge."

Biden bars drilling over vast swath of Alaska

President Joe Biden's administration on Wednesday announced it is banning new oil and gas drilling over a vast region of Alaska that is significant for Indigenous communities and home to iconic animal species. The new plan would also limit, but not outright ban, drilling in an additional 2.4 million acres of the NPR-A, and support subsistence activities for Alaska Native communities.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated that data scientists will be one of the fastest-growing—and highest-paying—occupations in the coming years. There are nearly half a million open jobs in data analytics, paying a median entry-level salary of $92,000, according to Google.

To help fill that demand, at least eight local colleges are participating in a regional joint venture to invest in artificial intelligence and data analytics programming through the Bay Area Community College Consortium. Additional colleges, such as Skyline College in San Bruno, signed up to receive curriculum updates to help create their own.

This helps bring lucrative work opportunities to community college students, who tend to be older than four-year university students and from lower-income backgrounds.

School for International Training - How We're Different

The SIT experience is life-changing. It introduced students to a critical global issue or field of study around which they have shaped their academic pursuits or careers. Our programs have revealed new strengths or interests many had not yet discovered in themselves and helped our alumni build connections, relationships, and networks around the world. Many have returned to the country of their SIT program to research, live, and work, and countless others have brought what they learned with SIT to their own communities back home. Here are some of the ways SIT Study Abroad is extraordinary.

NOT YOUR ORDINARY STUDY ABROAD

SIT students are discovering new species in Ecuadorian rainforests, meeting diplomats, trekking to remote Himalayan villages, going on expeditions to Antarctica, and interning at globally recognized organizations including UN agencies, the International Red Cross, and the Centers for Disease Control. Our immersive programs allow you to view the world and understand critical global issues from a range of perspectives. With classes in 27 languages—including Icelandic, Luganda, and Samoan—and extensive networks within each program country, our programs provide learning opportunities you won't find anywhere else.

CRITICAL GLOBAL ISSUES

SIT programs are developed within a framework of the most critical global issues of our time—challenges that transcend borders to touch every human on the planet. By framing our programs around these issues, we believe that as the next generation of leaders, you will have the expertise and intercultural understanding to engage all identities and perspectives to develop respectful, enduring, and meaningful responses to these challenges.

COMMITMENT TO SOCIAL JUSTICE

SIT was founded on the idea that cultural exchange leads to positive social change. We prepare students to be interculturally effective changemakers, professionals, and citizens. In so doing, SIT fosters a worldwide network of individuals and organizations committed to responsible global citizenship.

PROGRAMS ON ALL SEVEN CONTINENTS

You'll find SIT among the ecosystems of Southern Patagonia and Antarctica; in Ghana's vibrant hip-hop scene and Malaysia's dynamic Islamic banking and business centers; at the heart of autonomy movements in Spain and Scotland; discovering news species in Ecuador; in the migrant centers of the Middle East, and at many more amazing locations in between. Where will SIT take you?

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH    *Independent Study Project (ISP)

Many students choose SIT because of our in-depth, field-based independent research choices known as Independent Study Projects (ISP). These projects often lead to related theses at home institutions or prestigious research fellowships, including Fulbrights, after graduation. Learn

more about ISP.

IHP Comparative Research Project

The unique nature of the International Honors Program (IHP) Comparative portfolio results in a different form of student research. The approach still emphasizes the multidisciplinary analysis of issues and integrates the experience-based learning of the semester, but it results in a comparative research project on a topic of the student's own choosing. Typically, the cumulative project involves qualitative research undertaken in each of the countries visited.

GLOBAL FACULTY & STAFF

SIT's summer and semester-long programs are divided into five regions (including the International Honors Program which covers multiple countries). Most of our nearly 400 program faculty and staff around the world were born, raised, and/or educated in the countries in which their programs are based. They include academic and program directors with terminal degrees in their fields who have researched and taught at local universities; program coordinators who have firsthand knowledge of everything from regional NGOs to the best local cafes; and homestay coordinators with close ties to the families in their communities. Staff Directory

World Learning Inc.'s academic programs offered through SIT (founded as the School for International Training) are accredited by the New England Commission of Higher Education (formerly the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, Inc.). Inquiries regarding the accreditation status should be directed to the administrative staff of SIT.
